HOKE SMITH LANDSLIDE WHELMS GEORGIA

CARRIES OVER ONE HUNDRED COUNTIES

AND GIVES HIM THE GUBERNATORIAL PRIZE

JOYNER WINS OVER GOODWIN BY 261 VOTES

Defeated Candidate Makes Remarkably Fine Showing At Polls Yesterday.

SAYS HE WILL CONTEST ELECTION OF OPPONENT.

A. L. Curtis Defeats M. T. LaHatte and Frank Hilburn for Aldermanic Honors in the First Ward—LaHatte Ran Second in the Race.

The Winners.

MAYOR.

W. R. Joyner.

ALDERMEN.

A. L. Curtis, first ward.
H. M. Beutell, fifth ward.

COUNCILMEN.

Dr. A. H. Baskin, first ward.
Press Huddleston, second ward.
C. W. Mangum, third ward.
Dr. B. E. Pearce, fourth ward.
I. F. Styron, fifth ward.
John W. Grant, sixth ward.
Dr. T. D. Longino, seventh ward.
Charles E. Harman, eighth ward.

City Attorney—James L. Mayson.
City Engineer—R. M. Clayton.
City Tax Collector—E. T. Payne.
Commissioner Public Works—H. L. Collier.
City Treasurer—Thomas J. Peeples.
City Sexton—H. H. Barefield.

Chief W. R. Joyner was elected mayor yesterday over Thomas H. Goodwin by a majority in the entire city of 261.

Joyner's total vote was 4,057 and Goodwin's 3,796, the vote by wards being as follows:

First ward—Joyner 366, Goodwin 457.
Second Ward—Joyner 830, Goodwin 843.
Third Ward—Joyner 614, Goodwin 676.
Fourth Ward—Joyner 517, Goodwin 441.
Fifth Ward—Joyner 415, Goodwin 612.
Sixth Ward—Joyner 800, Goodwin 448.
Seventh Ward—Joyner 231, Goodwin 215.
Eighth Ward—Joyner 284, Goodwin 104.

The large vote that Goodwin received was a great surprise to many of Joyner's friends. When Goodwin first announced it was believed he would not get 500 votes, but as time passed his strength began to increase and the day before the election bets were made that he would be elected.

Yesterday when the returns began to come in it looked for a while as if Goodwin would be a sure winner, and it was not until the last ward—the fourth—was heard from that the result was definitely known.

Sixth Ward Saved Joyner.

It will be seen by the full official vote of the city election that Goodwin carried several of the wards by a good majority. It was the sixth ward that saved Joyner. In that ward he received 800 votes even and that gave him a chance to overcome the fifth and third wards, in which Goodwin had large majorities.

It looked so like defeat for Joyner at a late hour last night that his friends became jubilant when the news came that he had been elected, even if the majority was small.

Joyner's celebrated fife and drum corps gathered in front of Joyner's home, over No. 1 engine house, and gave him a serenade.

It is said that a rumor had been put in circulation that Joyner was taking an interest in the election of governor and the friends of one candidate began to knife him. Mr. Goodwin's friends attribute his large vote to his platform and what he had said against Joyner during the campaign.

Mr. Goodwin was quoted last night as having announced that he intended to contest the election, but he had not yet made known upon what grounds he would make the contest.

The Other Races.

The race for alderman in the first ward was close and it took the last count to determine the result. The full vote stood:

Curtis 3,198, LaHatte 2,369, Hilburn 2,055.

The contest for council in the third ward stood:

Mangum 828, Bishop 444.

In the fourth ward the vote was:

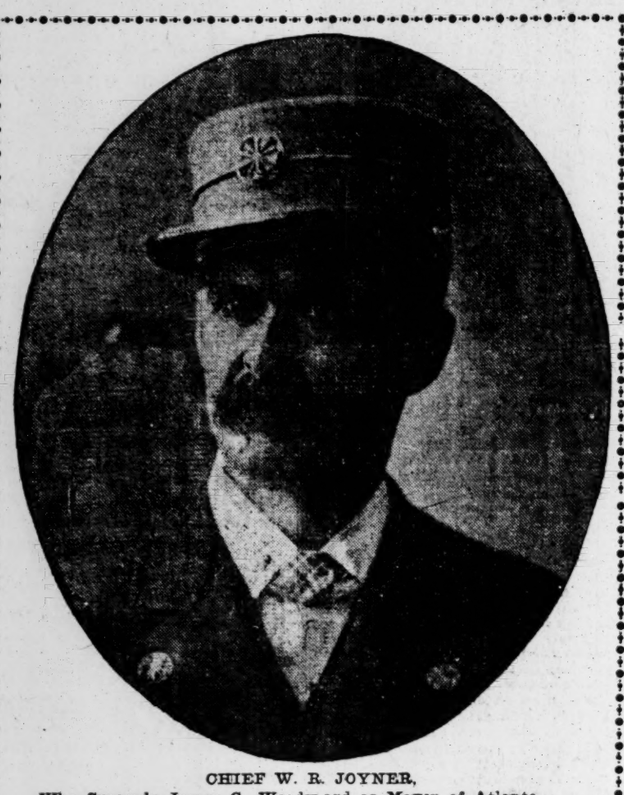

Pearce 636, Turner 328.

In the fifth ward the triangular race resulted as follows:

Styron 477, Adams 393, Barrett 182.

In the other wards there were no contest. Mr. Beutell, for alderman in the fifth, received all the votes polled in the city. In the second ward Mr. Huddleston's vote was 1,645; in the sixth, Mr. Grant received 1,248 votes; in the seventh, Dr. Longino received 444 votes, and in the eighth, Mr. Harman received 392 votes.

All the city hall officials received nearly the full vote cast.

CHIEF W. R. JOYNER,
Who Succeeds James G. Woodward as Mayor of Atlanta.

HOME WARDS FOR HOWELL

Though Defeated, Howell Men Were Lucky in Betting.

Mr. Smith Lives in Sixth Ward and Mr. Howell in the Eighth—Both Were Carried by Mr. Howell in Yesterday's Primary.

The sixth ward, in which Hoke Smith live, and the eighth, which is the home ward of Clark Howell, were both carried by Mr. Howell—and, though they were the only city wards won by him, it so happened that those who layed their money on the loser won it, while the gentlemen who backed the winner are out a number of good dollars.

In Atlanta nearly all the betting was on the proposition that Clark Howell would carry his home ward and Hoke Smith lose his. The wager was offered by the Clark Howell men first when $1,000 was posted at a local cigar store. This was covered by the adherents of Mr. Smith, and subsequently a number of other bets were made on the same wager.

In nearly all cases the names of those engaged in the betting were not disclosed, and in many instances those who offered money did not know who took it, while those who covered bets were not aware of the identity of the gentlemen whose coin they were attempting to take.

BREAKS WORLD'S RECORD.

Autoist Goes Fifty Miles in One Hour and Three Minutes.

Philadelphia, August 22.—A new world's record for automobiles for 50 miles was established on the Point Breeze track here today by E. R. Kelly, of this city. Kelly covered the distance in one hour three minutes and nineteen and three-fourth seconds.

Barney Oldfield established a new track record for a mile, finished in one minute two seconds. Barney Oldfield and Eddie Bald were the only starters in the final heat of the Atlantic City sweepstakes for a prize of $2,000. The distance was 5 miles and Bald won. Time, five minutes forty-five seconds.

SHEPPARD WINS; OVERSTREET TOO

Result of the Double Race in First District.

Overstreet Chosen to Fill Unexpired Term of Colonel Rufus E. Lester, and Sheppard Named for the Long Term.

Savannah, Ga., August 22.—(Special.)—Although all the returns are not in from the first congressional district, there is no doubt that J. W. Overstreet was elected to fill the unexpired term of the late Rufus E. Lester and that W. W. Sheppard was elected to the long term. There were four candidates for the short term, Gordon Saussy, William Clifton, J. W. Overstreet and J. Hartridge Smith. Sheppard was opposed in the contest for the long term by J. A. Brannen. Although this campaign has been a brief one, it has not lacked in vigor, all of the candidates taking the stump.

Trustees Take Charge.

Richmond, Va., August 22.—Liberty Council, Junior Order United American Mechanics, of Manchester, one of the largest local councils in the state, has placed its affairs in the hands of trustees, on account of an alleged large shortage in its funds. The trustees will, it is said, lay the facts before the commonwealth's attorney and ask him to act. The officers held responsible for the shortage deny all wrong-doing.

Not Guilty.

(From The Chicago News.)

The Beggar—Please, sir, will you kindly assist a poor old man who has three wives to support?

The Pedestrian—What, do you mean to say you are a bigamist?

The Beggar—Oh, no, sir. Two of them are the wives of my sons-in-law.

Unjust Suspicion.

(From The Chicago Tribune.)

"Maria," said Mr. Highmore, over the telephone, "I'd like to bring an old and valued friend and former partner home to dinner with me today."

"Who is it?" asked his wife.

"F. E. Skiles, who used to be—"

"Effie Skiles? I never heard of such a person. If you do, John Alfred, there'll be the biggest row you ever saw in this house!"

CULBERSON WON EASILY IN RACE FOR TREASURER

His Plurality Over His Nearest Competitor Was 450 Votes.

HIS VOTE WAS LARGE IN COUNTY PRECINCTS

Woodward Was Second and Sharp Third—Brannan Made Good Fourth. How the Others Stood—There Had Been Lively Betting on the Result.

Hubert L. Culberson, attorney at law and chairman of the board of county commissioners, was elected county treasurer yesterday over his seven opponents after one of the most spirited and interesting contests ever held in the county. He received 450 more votes than the next highest candidate, James G. Woodward. Mr. Sharp made a good third, and Mr. Brannan a good fourth.

What greatly added to Mr. Culberson's strength was the large vote he received in the country precincts. He came into the city with a good plurality over all his opponents. As soon as the counts in the city showed that he was holding his own it was at once known that he had been elected.

The full vote in this race is given below, the candidates being placed in the order of their standing at the end of the contest:

Culberson, 2,491; Woodward, 2,041; Sharp, 1,566; Brannan, 1,480; Draper, 547; Clarke, 512; Girardeau, 450; Barnes, 437.

It has often been claimed for Mr. Woodward that he could always poll at least 2,000 votes in the city for any office for which he might run. He polled about 1,900 in the city. His vote in the country precincts was small.

None of the candidates made a poor race and all showed that they had many friends in the county.

This race created as much if not more interest than any in the election held yesterday. There was a great deal of betting done and it was said last night that a lot of money changed hands. Most of the bets was on the naming of the three highest candidates. One man bet that Culberson would receive more votes than Woodward and Sharp put together. He lost, of course.

There were 10,124 votes cast in the race for county treasurer and of this number Mr. Culberson received a little more than one-fifth. He received more than did four of his opponents put together.

Four Hurt by Explosion.

Marion, Ohio, August 22.—The Marion Railway, Power and Light Company's power plant was wrecked and four men injured tonight by the explosion of a 350-horse power boiler. The shock was felt for two miles. The entire city was thrown into darkness.

The injured:

Albert Riley, fireman, burned and bruised.

Gottlieb Tretz, coal heaver, probably fatally scalded.

G. F. Dalton, fireman, and his son Charles, cut and bruised.

Howard Rudisell, engineer and William McCall, helper, were overcome by heat.

Kills Rival at Church.

Lexington, Ky., August 22.—During a religious revival in Magoffin county today, Boyd Sturgeon shot and killed John England, his rival for the affections of a young woman. Sturgeon escaped to the mountains.

M'DUFFIE DEMOCRATS JOIN IN JUBILATION

They've "Kept Their Eyes On Bowden" and Pulled Off Victory.

TOM WATSON DEFEATED DESPITE HIS APPEALS

His Home County Goes Against His Candidate, Giving Good Majority to Colonel Jim Smith.

Thomson, Ga., August 22.—(Special.)—Despite the landslide against democracy that seems to have struck almost every county of the state, the democrats of McDuffie come up smiling. They feel they have pulled off a great victory by carrying this county against Tom Watson's candidate, Hoke Smith.

The contest in this county has been exceedingly close, every inch of the ground being fought over. Since he first entered political life, Tom Watson has never made such a personal campaign as he has in behalf of Hoke Smith. He has gone into the different country precincts, giving barbecues and making speeches and personal appeals to his old populist friends; he has brought to bear every personal influence he could by any possibility command, and yet his candidate lost the county.

It has been the general opinion here that Watson's ambition was to get to the Macon convention in order to have the machinery of the democratic party put in his hands. To this end he set up the cry that somebody or other was trying to humiliate him by defeating his candidate in his (Watson's) home county, and from the day he put Hoke Smith into the field he has devoted practically all his time to campaigning. He made two speeches in Thomson, he called to his assistance Congressman Hardwick and others of his lieutenants, and no stone has been left unturned by him.

But old McDuffie is still democratic, and the democrats here are rejoicing at the signal victory they have pulled off in carrying the county for Colonel Jim Smith. Watson's cry, "Keep your eye on Bowden," has been taken up from one end of the county to the other, and the popular young business man whom Watson attacked because of his interest in his personal friend, Jim Smith, finds himself tonight the most popular man in the county.

BIBB CARRIED BY HOKE SMITH

Macon, Ga., August 22.—(Special.)—A division of the solid democratic vote of Bibb between Clark Howell and Judge Russell has unquestionably lost the county to Hoke Smith and his plurality will be in the neighborhood of 200 votes.

The city count is not at this hour finished, but that which is complete still gives Smith such majority as will insure his leading in Bibb.

The local results are at this hour conceded as follows:

Felder, for the senate, wins over Davis in Bibb. Felton wins over Matthews in Bibb for judgeship of superior court. Joe Hill Hall, T. E. Ryals and Ben Fowler will be Bibb's representatives and S. A. Crump will defeat George Wing for treasurer. Tax Receiver R. J. Anderson defeats Beckham.

The results have been taken calmly by the crowds who waited with considerable interest. There has been a small vote in the county, many remaining away from the polls.

FULTON CARRIED BY HOKE SMITH

Candidate Won County by Plurality of 1,964 Votes.

Came to the City With Over Five Hundred to the Good, and Carried Every Ward Except the Sixth and the Eighth.

By a plurality of 1,964 votes over Clark Howell and a clear majority of 1,200 votes over the four candidates opposing him, Hoke Smith yesterday carried Fulton county in the race for the democratic nomination for the governorship.

Mr. Smith's strong showing in the county was apparent early in the afternoon when the returns from the county precincts began coming in. When all the county had been figured up Mr. Smith was found 528 votes ahead of his nearest competitor.

In the city Mr. Smith increased his plurality by over 1,400 votes, carrying every ward in the city with the exception of the sixth and eighth, the former being Mr. Smith's home ward and the latter the home ward of Clark Howell.

The other candidates were never considered seriously and the small vote cast for them showed the justness of this opinion. Judge R. B. Russell received 681, Colonel J. H. Estill 61 and Colonel James M. Smith 29.

Wright and Merritt Win.

For state house officers there were only two contests and in each case Fulton went heavily for the encumbent.

For comptroller general, William A. Wright received 7,212 to 2,009 cast for Vincent T. Sanford, of Floyd.

For state school commissioner, W. B. Merritt was given 5,114, while his opponent, Mark Johnson, of Baldwin, received 3,727.

The following candidates were not opposed and received practically the full vote, scratching being indulged in to a very limited extent:

For Secretary of State,
PHILIP COOK.
For State Treasurer,
ROBERT E. PARK.
For Attorney General,
JOHN C. HART.
For Commissioner of Agriculture,
T. G. HUDSON.
For Prison Commissioner,
CLEMENT A. EVANS.
For Chief Justice Supreme Court,
(Unexpired term ending January 1, 1911.)
WILLIAM H. FISH.
For Associate Justice,
(Unexpired Term, 1911.)
MARCUS W. BECK.
For Associate Justice,
(Unexpired Term, 1907.)
SAMUEL C. ATKINSON.
JOSEPH HENRY LUMPKIN.
For Associate Justice,
(Full Term.)
SAMUEL C. ATKINSON.
JOSEPH HENRY LUMPKIN.
For United States Senator,
A. O. BACON.
For Judge Atlanta Circuit,
JUDGE JOHN T. PENDLETON.

WITTE SUBMITS TO KNIFE.

Former Russian Premier Undergoes Operation at Frankfort.

St. Petersburg, August 22.—Count Witte, the former premier, submitted to an operation on Tuesday at Frankfort-on-the-Main, which was performed by Professor Espiss. A telegram received here from the count declares that his health was the sole reason for his visit to Frankfort, all rumors of political aims to the contrary notwithstanding. He will be obliged to remain at Frankfort or in the vicinity in order to affect a cure.

WHEN CALLED COUNTIES CRY "HOKE SMITH"

Such A Sameness About Returns They Grow A Bit Monotonous

NO SECTION ESCAPED HOKE SMITH DELUGE

Fulton, Floyd, Bibb, Richmond and Thomas, of "Big Six," Are for Hoke Smith, and Estill Saves Chatham by Uncomfortably Small Margin.

The result of the state primary is a signal victory for Hoke Smith.

The returns, practically complete, show that Mr. Smith has carried 100 counties. In several counties it will require the official count to determine the result and from several of the more remote counties no reports of a definite character have been received. The present indications are that Mr. Smith is assured of 264 delegates to the state convention out of 366 comprising the membership of the body.

The Constitution's report tells the story of the battle of ballots. Mr. Smith's victory is full and complete. It means, all probability, his nomination by acclamation at the state convention, which meets at Macon on September 4.

The only other contests on the state ticket were those for the offices of comptroller general and state school commissioner. These were completely overshadowed by the contest over the governorship—so completely that most of the voters were not aware that such contests were on until they undertook to mark their tickets. Neither Mr. Sanford nor Mr. Johnston made the slightest impression, Comptroller General Wright and State School Commissioner Merritt carrying every county so far as reported.

Three contests for congress were of interesting side issues. Too of these were furnished by the first district. The race for the short term to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Colonel Rufus E. Lester brought out a separate set of candidates than that for the long term. The short term contest was won by Hon. J. W. Overstreet, of Screven, over three opponents. The long term was won by

SOCIAL EQUALITY MEANS THE TRIUMPH OF LUST

Clarence Ousely Writes Hot Letter to President Roosevelt.

TEXANS WARMLY OBJECT TO FORT'S ABANDONMENT

Outrage at Brownsville and the Presidential Action in the Matter Elicits Strong Language From the Prominent Texas Editor.

Fort Worth, Tex., August 22.—Clarence Ousley, editor of The Fort Worth Record and one of the most thorough students of the race question in the south, has written an open letter to President Roosevelt on the proposed abandonment of Fort Brown, because the white people refused to receive the negro troops on terms of social equality in which he reviews the incident, and concludes:

"While not so designed its effect is to put hellish lust in the minds of the millions of negro brutes who are no more comparable to the intelligent negro you have met than the best of the race today is comparable to the savages of Africa. These negroes of whom I speak and whom you do not know, constitute the vast majority of the nine million living in our backyards, and they are absolutely incapable of reason. Social equality to their minds means the unspeakable crime. Bar every aspiring and decent negro who has the door of hope who you vainly imagine you are holding open to the race, a thousand negroes see only the emblem of a white virgin. Cut off our natural drive our men out of the house of their fathers as an atonement for slavery but don't make our wives and daughters the victims of a false philosophy and partisan regime.

"You have proved your greatness in many achievement, and I like to think you are honest. But, you are not infallible, and you cannot perform miracles."

Culberson Raises Protest.

Washington, Tex., August 22.—United States Senator Charles A. Culberson, of Texas, sent the following telegram today, to which, up to a late hour tonight, no reply had been received:

"Dallas, Tex., August 22.—General F. Ainsworth, the Military Secretary, Washington, D. C.: In the morning papers here the Associated Press states that at Fort Brown will be abandoned. I will thank you to wire me if this course has been determined upon. It is the duty of the United States to protect the frontier, and as Texas borders upon Mexico, it has always been deemed advisable to police the frontier with regular troops, including a station at Fort Brown. While conditions on the border have improved very much within recent years, this course is still advisable, and it would be regrettable that this fort should be abandoned because the people of a border city like Brownsville object to negro troops under circumstances of raid and murder such as recently occurred there.

(Signed) "C. A. CULBERSON."

Senator Culberson declined to discuss the matter tonight. He would only say that although the message had been sent early in the day, no reply had been received.

He will leave here tomorrow morning for New York and Washington. He goes to New York for the purpose of attending the reception of William J. Bryan, being a member of the executive committee. Although he did not so state, it is presumed that his visit to Washington will be to confer with the authorities there regarding the Fort Brown matter.

MAKE 15,000,000 UMBRELLAS.

(From The American Inventor.)

Up to a few years ago, it is said, only seven patents on umbrellas has been issued in the United States in one hundred years, this despite the fact that the annual production of umbrellas in this country is close to 15,000,000. The ribs and steel of an umbrella are generally made in factories having a specialty of these items, and are sent thence to the real manufacturer. Here, first, the man whose work it is to assemble the parts inserts a bit of wire into the small holes at the end of the ribs, draws them together about the main rod and puts on the ferrule.

In cutting the cloth seventy-five thicknesses or thereabouts are arranged upon a splitting table, at which skilled operators work. In another room are a number of girls who operate hemming machines. A thousand yards of hemmed goods is but a day's work for one of these girls. The machines at which they work have a speed of some 3,000 revolutions a minute.

After hemming the cloth is cut into triangular pieces with a knife as before, but with a pattern laid upon the cloth. The next operation is the sewing of the triangular pieces together by machinery.

The covers and the frames are now ready to be brought together. In all there are twenty-one places where the cover is to be attached to the frame in the average umbrella.

The handle is next glued on and the umbrella is ready for pressing and inspection. By far the greater number of umbrellas today are equipped with wooden handles. A large variety of materials may be used, however, such as horn, china, bone, agate, pearl, ivory, silver and gold. Gold and silver quite naturally enter into the construction of the more expensive grades of unbrellas, some of which, in price, have been known to bring as high as $150 and $200. A wooden handle may likewise be expensive, depending upon the quality of the wood used. Ebony, petrified wood, fir, oak and elder are as well known to the umbrella man—15,000,000 umbrellas a year.

The umbrella has been developing rapidly during the last few years. We pick up even a cheap one nowadays, press a an eagle ready for its flight. We are going away and an ordinary umbrella is too long to put in our grip. We find among our assortment of umbrellas and parasols one that is meant for just such an emergency, and which, in a most accommodating manner, folds up to suit the size of our traveling bag. Other new ones lock with a key. Some spread their shade over eight or nine feet of territory, and manufacturers aver that these are but a few of the improvements which we may expect.

ABOLITION OF FRENCH DUELLING REALLY SEEMS TO BE IN SIGHT

Sarraut was dangerously wounded under the left arm, and for some days his condition was serious.

By FRANK ARISTIDE.

Special Cable.

PARIS, August 22.—Dueling really seems to have received its death blow in France. The news will come as a surprise to the outside world, long accustomed to regard the code duello as one of the most firmly established of French institutions. The sudden revulsion of feeling which has swept over France is, however, the direct result of Colonel Picquart's action in his recent duel with General Gonse last month. Though for many years the French Anti-Duelling League has worked assiduously to suppress this barbarous and irrational custom, all its labors have not proved anything like as effective as the unique method adopted by Colonel Picquart to show his contempt for this manner of "satisfying offended honor."

It will be remembered that Colonel Picquart is one of the heroes of the Dreyfus affair. When Dreyfus was thought guilty by most of his fellow-officers, Picquart alone boldly defended him, wrecking thereby all his immediate military prospects and, finally, being degraded and treated almost as unjustly as Dreyfus himself.

Picquart Refused to Shoot.

It was out of the Dreyfus affair that the recent Gonse-Picquart duel arose. It seems that, during the trial, Picquart and General Gonse had a discussion over the merits of the case. Colonel Picquart announced his conviction that Dreyfus was innocent, and gave reasons of weight to back up his judgment. "If you keep quiet," General Gonse is said to have remarked, "no one will ever know about it." These words Colonel Picquart boldly swore to at the court of cassation, and, from that time, a smouldering feud existed between the two distinguished army officers. It finally reached its climax when General Gonse came out in the Parisian Press in a letter giving Picquart's statement the "lie direct." Of course, a challenge followed. Picquart and Gonse met on the field of honor at a suburban villa of Paris.

General Gonse—who is a fine shot and possessed of intrepid coolness—did his best to bring down his man, but missed. When Picquart's time came to fire, he glinted his eye down the barrel of the pistol for a moment, and then suddenly turned and threw the weapon on the ground, with an exclamation of disgust. "What good would it do to kill him?" he cried. "Nothing would be decided—the whole thing is absurd."

The next day all Paris was talking of the event; and the strange psychological phenomenon presents itself of Frenchmen agreeing almost unanimously that Picquart was right. And this after centuries of duelling, during which the code became an approved fixture of French life.

Knew How Not to Kill.

Another thing that has helped to bring the "affair of honor" into disfavor in France is the serious results that have followed one or two duels lately. Up to this time, duelling has been tolerated because it was considered "bad form" for antagonists to wound each other vitally. In fact, expert swordsmen—most of the French duels being fought with swords—deliberately learn how not to kill. A man who kills another in a duel in France is regarded in the eyes of the law as a murderer, and must flee the country if he wishes to escape trial and conviction on a capital charge. Duellists strive, therefore, to administer slight "incapacitating" wounds; to draw a little blood; or even to give a scratch, of which the seconds always take advantage to declare that "honor is satisfied."

In addition to this, all sorts of devices are resorted to by seconds to make duels harmless. Lead and mercury bullets are often used, which crush to powder on being rammed into pistols; bullets of smaller caliber than the pistols are employed so that they will not carry sufficiently far to do any harm; double charges of powder are used to destroy the aim of good shots; and other ruses—known only to the seconds and agreed upon without knowledge of principals—have hitherto made the duel more or less of a pastime. In sword practice, antagonists who try to injure their opponents seriously are not encouraged; though, of course, occasionally "accidents" happen, and one or other of the principals has died. But this is a most unusual thing.

Now They Mean Business.

Some duellists, however, recently have shown a tendency to "mean business;" and it is on this account that an outcry has been raised in France.

One of the most sanguinary encounters recently was the duel between M. Sarraut, under-secretary of the interior, and M. Pugliese-Conti, the nationalist deputy. M. Sarraut severely boxed the ears of the deputy during a sitting of the chamber over the recent Dreyfus revision. Of course, a duel followed. Swords were used, and after a furious battle M. Sarraut was severely wounded under the arm.

Other serious duels recently have been fought by De Roydays, editor of the Figaro; M. Labardesque, Max Regis, the Marquis de Dion, Gerault-Richard and Boni de Castellane, "Count Boni," by the way, is considered the finest pistol duellist in France. He has fought innumerable duels, often severely wounding his antagonist, though not fatally. His favorite "hitting point" are the right lung, well above the liver; or else in the leg. "I always avoid the head, or the region of the heart," he said ina recent interview with the writer. Persons who encounter M. Castellane may feel remarkably sure of escaping with their life. His expert marksmanship makes him very popular among those who favor duelling.

Always Draws Blood.

Another great duellist is M. Labardesque, one of the best swordsmen in Europe. He always "draws blood" from the arm or leg of his antagonist early in the affray. Duels with Labardesque are soon over, owing to his wonderful sword play. During his last fight with M. De Vellette, the duel lasted just two minutes, during which Labardesque succeeded in inflicting a severe arm wound which quite satisfied his antagonist. The seconds hastily called the duel off, and the usual elaborate "reconciliation breakfast" was enjoyed by the party. Most French duels take place in the early morning, at some quiet suburb of Paris; and afterwards there is generally a "spread."

Max Regis, known to fame for his anti-Jewish crusades, has had to fight many a duel within the last few years. Out of all these encounters he has come untouched; often inflicting grievous wounds on his enemy. Regis is equally at home with sword or pistol. He always wears a large soft felt slouch hat at these encounters. He has met oftenest in battle M. Labardesque; both these men being deadly antagonists. As each is a wonderful swordsman, the meetings are usually regarded in Paris as extremely entertaining. Not infrequently, ladies are invited to witness the proceedings. Duels between these two men are never permitted by the seconds to be fought to a finish, for Regis and Labardesque hate each other so thoroughly that it is believed a finished fight would end in the death of one or the other. Therefore, the slightest scratch drawing a drop of blood brings the meeting to a close.

Never Sends a Challenge.

Gerault-Richard is another famous duellist who, however, has done much to suppress duelling by making it a rule never to send a challenge, though he never refuses one. One of his most famous fights was with the marquis de Dion, who slapped M. Gerault-Richard in the face during a meeting of the chamber. The marquis, considering that he was the offending party, announced that he would await M. Gerault-Richard's seconds. As the latter never sent a challenge, the public was interested to know how he would meet the difficulty. He did so by publishing in the Petite Republique an insulting article concerning the marquis, who, after all, sent seconds as a result. In this fight the marquis was badly wounded.

Even in dueling circles in France the tendency seems to have been toward a more "common sense" view of the entire matter. France seems, in fact, to have suddenly awakened to a sense of the folly of deciding a point of honor by a question of good marksmanship, or fine sword play. Doubtless, the action of the French army officer will result in vigorous legislative measures being taken to suppress dueling altogether, unless the practice dies a natural death from the strong public feeling which has suddenly sprung up against it.

A Tiger Has a Paw in a Cast.

(From The New York Times.)

Heinrich, a powerful Bengal tiger, has been limping around on three legs at Bostock's arena in Dreamland, Coney Island, for many weeks. His fourth leg was put out of commission last April by Tammany, another tiger, who got Heinrich's left forepaw in his mouth and crunched it until he broke several small bones. This happened in Paris. Saturday a veterinary surgeon, Dr. Henry Amling, patched up Heinrich's fourth leg, that he might go around on all fours again.

The veterinary's arrival was a signal for the attendants to prepare Heinrich for the "operation." First of all appeared Herr Henrickson, Heinrich's teacher. Heinrich was lying on his back. When the animal men approached with ropes in their hands, Heinrich merely shot an upward glance their way and then closed his eyes. The next moment they had a thick rope around his neck and Herr Hendrickson, who has the build of a giant, pulled Heinrich from the rear of the cage against the bars. An attendant took the other end of the rope, wound it around the monkey cage several times and then fastened it to a pole with several half hitches.

Then Heinrich seemed to realize that they were going to do something to him. His eyes flashed, his mouth frothed and his claws scratched the air. The attendants loosed the rope a bit. The tiger got up and glared.

"Heine, oh, Heine!" cried Herr Hendrickson in a plaintive voice.

Heinrich only glared the more. At last they got ropes around both his fore paws, and then Herr Hendrickson yanked him to the bars again. Heinrich was soon securely bound. Dr. Amling injected some morphine and atropine into Heinrich's neck. This made Heinrich's eyes take on a dreamy, far-away look in short order. Dr. Amling felt for the broken bones and bound the injured paw up into a sort of cast.

As soon as the cast dried the operation, which was really a tame affair, was ended. The ropes were loosened and Heinrich fell in a corner. He was too weak to stand up on his three legs and the repaired one. His eyes looked like two big blue "jumbo" marbles. After he had a drink he was pulled out of view.

The doctor said the broken bones ought to knit in eight or ten weeks.

THE MOORISH SLAVE MARKET.

(Written by a Resident of Mogador for The London Daily Graphic.)

One by one the great slave markets of the world are disappearing; yet, within three hours steam of Gibraltar, Morocco remains one of the very few countries where the public auction of negroes, and other than negroes, may still be witnessed. Any traveler who finds his way to the imperial city, Marrakesh, should make a point of visiting its famous market, which has recently been attracting the attention of the powers. A century ago it was no uncommon thing for Englishmen and English women—the captives of the Raisulis of that day—to pass into lifelong slavery from the very same yard, large and squalid, where I have just witnessed the auction of some twenty-five natives.

It seems hard to believe that while England was waging war with Napoleon, the main duty of her ambassador in Morocco was to appeal to the sultan, cap in hand, and with ample offerings of carriages and cannons—which the Moors described as tribute—for the release of British crews and their wives, who had the ill fortune to be captured by the famous rowers of Sallee and Rabat. Faithful records of these transactions may yet be found in the diplomatic and consular reports of the period.

At about 5 o'clock on a Thursday afternoon the proceedings of the Marrakesh auction opened—with prayer—the eight or ten auctioneers formed in line, calling for the divine blessing upon both buyer and seller. In this appeal, I remarked, the slaves were not mentioned. Then, leading his chattels from one group of possible buyers to another, each auctioneer went the round of the market, stating the amount of the last bid. The presence of Europeans is not welcomed at these sales; but nothing was said to us, excepting that we were asked, courteously enough, not to walk about. For any looker-on to move from his place would, it seems, be a breach of slave auction etiquette.

No writer in search of startling effects need visit the Marrakesh market. The whole thing is, as a rule, business-like, not to say humdrum. Naturally enough, the slaves, especially the girls, are dressed in their best, and artistically groomed, and in many cases a change of masters is looked forward to with pleasure. Somehow or other the horror we have all felt at some period of our lives evaporates considerably on facing the reality. It is quite obvious for one thing that the average Moorish negro does not want freedom. It is also a fact that in nine cases out of ten he is far better off than a free person of his capacity dare hope to be. Indeed, it is no uncommon thing for a freed slave to resell himself, and share the price paid with the friend who poses as original owner. We all, in theory, realize the something wrong in slavery; but in some mysterious way theory and practice clash. Of one thing we may rest assured. A plebiscite of Moorish slaves would emphatically reject an offer of liberty which entailed the responsibil-

Human Power of Resistance.

(From Harper's Weekly.)

The inhabitants of Paris once lived under Henry IV, during a siege, on the most repugnant meals. All grass which could be found, even that growing between the stones of the pavement, was cooked into soups. In a field oven erected especially for this purpose "delicious" pastries of ground bones were made up during a period of three weeks, and the necessary bones were obtained from a nearby cemetery.

What occurred during the siege of Paris in 1871 is still in mind. People ate almost all the animals of the zoological garden. One of the butchers sold monkey and urchin meat, and canal rat as well as dog meat became "classical." A baker's family consumed during the siege their entire shop—i. e., all their goods—and an aged tradeswoman stayed in her basement for 144 days, living during all that time on nothing but cheese. The polar explorers knew even worse meals. The pioneers of the pole considered raw fish and polar bear meat delicacies, and Nansen is authority for the statement that he and his men were exceedingly delighted when they succeededin baking cakes with illuminating oil. From tarred rigging of the ship and from the lichens which were found on the desolate rocks not infrequently the strangest soups were made.

In the year 1901 the well digger Simon of Bonneval, near Chartres, was entombed by fallen sand and remained so for five days, having nothing to eat or to drink. In 1895 some miners in Wales were rescued from an entirely flooded mine after ten days, still alive. The water had already risen to their chins. There are, however, still more remarkable cases. The London Philosophical Transactions told of a man who had stayed in a cellar, covered by the debris of the building, twenty-four days without eating and drinking. Italy, too, presents an instance; it is reported by Somlo, the physician of the King of Sardinia: In Piedmont three women had been overtaken by an avalanche, and had been living, when they were rescued on March 19, 1755, under the debris of a stable for thirty-seven days.

DANIEL WATER
CORRECTS THE COOK'S MISTAKES

Many a case of chronic dyspepsia, indigestion, torpid liver and intestinal trouble can be charged to inexperienced and careless cooks. Commercial travelers and others who have no permanent abiding place are some of the chief sufferers from the cook's mistakes. Business men, bookkeepers and clerks, from necessity or habit, hurry through their meals, and a ruined stomach is the inevitable result.

You can drive muscle and brain, but not the digestion; it must take its time, or a bad headache, constipation, biliousness, or some other form of stomach disorder is the penalty. Daniel Water corrects the cook's mistakes, and counteracts the bad effects of hurried eating. It is an alkaline not a salt water. The mineral ingredients it contains act as a mild laxative, neutralize the excess of acids and relieve the various distressing symptoms of indigestion. It stimulates the torpid liver, flushes out the kidneys and tones up weak stomachs. Delivered in cases of 6 half-gallon bottles to any part of the city, or direct from the Spring to out of town customers in quantities of 5 or more gallons.

Million Involved in Suspension of Firm.

Big Brokerage Firm, With 300 Branch Offices, Is Forced to Quit—Concern Had 25,000 Accounts Outstanding.

New York, August 22.—M. J. Sage & Co., brokers of No. 1 Montgomery street, Jersey City, and No. 57 Broadway, this city, at the close of business hours today, posted a notice at their Jersey City office, informing their correspondents that they had discontinued business.

The firm had branch offices in a number of cities in the east, and correspondents throughout the country. The amount involved is said to be large, although no one in authority could be found tonight to give figures.

The firm moved its principal office to Jersey City about the time the new stock transfer tax went into effect in this state.

Messages were sent by Sage & Co. today to all the branch offices, notifying the local managers that it had been found necessary to close up.

Sage & Co. was incorporated under the laws of the state of New York in 1904, with a capital stock of $50,000. The object of the company, as set forth in the incorporation papers, was to conduct a stock commission business.

Young Man Heads Firm.

The president of the firm is Maurice J. Sage, a young man, who came to this city about twelve years ago from Binghamton, N. Y.

Up to May the firm, together with the Guanajuato malgamated Mines Company, occupied joint offices at No. 42 Broadway.

The Guanajuta Amalgamated Mines Company is the property of Albert J. Adams. After his release from Sing-Sing he purchased this mining property located in Guanajuata, Mexico, for a sum estimated at $1,000,000. Shortly after this Adams went to Mexico and now lives near his mines.

It is stated that the Sage system consisted of a string of at least 300 branch offices, stretching from Maine to New Orleans and in some quarters tonight the failure was declared to involve possibly $2,000,000.

Although a great business was done by this stock commission firm it has no stock exchange membership here.

The principal branch offices of the firm are located in the larger cities and towns of New England, New York and Pennsylvania.

Had 25,000 Accounts.

Up to the present time the firm has met all their financial obligations. During the time they have been in business they had encountered several severe bull campaigns, especially the one during the latter part of last year.

It was not long, however, before the loss sustained by the firm was recovered. Following the bull market came a sensational cotton market. At the outbreak of the activities in the cotton market the Sage company had one direct wire running from their New York offices throughout the southeastern states through to New Orleans. There were 175 branch offices of this firm connected with this wire.

During the sensational times in the cotton market about the time of the panic the speculation in cotton in the south was enormous. The Sage system got a great volume of business through the southern branches, and as a result of the campaign the firm came out a winner to the amount of $1,000,000. The firm succeeded in getting on the "right side" of the market. This large sum together with the oncoming of a bear campaign in the stock market enabled the firm to recover all its previous losses.

The firm had more than 25,000 accounts outstanding. It was learned tonight that the managers of the firm had been appealing for several days to their principal financial backer for more money to tide over the crisis, but he decided not to make any further remittances.

The actress had to be escorted to her hotel by policemen.

MUSCLES LIKE BASEBALLS.

Peculiar Development of Shoulders of Mendoza Street Sprinklers.

(From The Los Angeles Times.)

Mendoza, Argentina.—The other streets of the city also have running water, though not in such quantity as San Martin, and from these streams the sprinkling is done. This work is performed entirely by young boys, and Mendoza is the only city I can recall that has a regularly paid municipal department, the labors of which—except supervision—are entirely in the hands of children. These lads—you rarely see one over 15—are each provided with a long pole having a two or three-quart can on the end of it. The water is dipped up in the cans and thrown with a swinging motion out on to the street. They usually work in squads of half a dozen each, two squads working abreast each other from opposite streams. The sprinkling is most thoroughly done, much better, I think, than by carts, and the investment for equipment is practically nothing.

I was quite amazed at the distance—often fifty feet and more—many of these lads were able to throw the contents of their water cans, and I could not divine where so much power came from until I chanced upon a couple of them at their evening bath in the stream of one of the side streets. They were the most remarkable examples of freaky muscular development I have ever seen. It is an interesting study to note the special muscles developed in those who are bound to a fixed line of physical labor. Thus, the man who strikes a drill in a mine has an enormous bicep; a carpenter who shoves a plane an abnormal tricep, and the professional bicyclist a huge bunch of muscle just inside and above the knee. A sprinter has long, smooth muscles in the calf of his leg, whereas a man who runs with a rickshaw has a calf so heavily muscled that it almost seems bursting from the skin, from which the inference may be drawn that the difference in muscling is due to the modified strain imposed by the resistance of the rickshaw. These Mendoza sprinklers had no prominent muscles at all except two enormous bunches on top of each shoulder, considerably larger and almost as round as baseballs. The rest of the arm was a mere whip of skin and bone, terminating in a slender hand. The contrast between the little arm and the huge shoulder muscle was almost ludicrous and it occurred to me that if one of the former was to be amputated, with the ball of muscle attached, it would make a not unrecognizable imitation of a reduced model of a sixteen-pound hammer. The reason d'etre of this strange development lies in the fact that the lifting and tlirowing of water with the pole and can arrangement puts the strain almost entirely upon the muscles over the shoulder, and the action constantly repeated develops the muscles into the seeming abnormality.

Names of Ships.

(From Shipping Illustrated.)

Any horse owner may give his horse whatever name he chooses, as no law will prevent him doing so. However, it is safe to presume that in the case of a valuable animal bred for racing purposes, the owner will take good care that the name given the quadruped be such a sto create no confusion witn that of any other race horse. Newspaper owners are debarred by the copyright law from duplicating the names of rival publications, and the same restriction applies to theaters, shops, road houses, etc. Ship owners enjoy, in common with horse owners, the privilege of giving their craft any name which may suit their fancy. A look at the register, however, will convince any one of the poor imagination many owners have dispalyed in naming their vessels and what inextricable muddle has resulted from the repetition of names.

When a ship's name is free from duplication in the ship's own country, the evil is not great as the precaution of referring to the nationality of the vessel will avoid all confusion. When, on the other hand, the same names are given several deep-sea vessels flying the same flag, the modern shipping trade Theseus who ventures in this labyrinth without the thread of Ariadne in the shape of a clew as t some particulars of the ship he is endeavoring to identify, finds himself baffled at every turn and constantly facing the Minotaur who appears in the shape of doubt and needless anxiety. British ship owners, as representing the larger share of the total tonnage owned in the world, have been responsible in no small measure for this state of affairs. Among the names especially relished by them, those evoking memories dear to the heart of the loyal Briton have, of course, been repeated with the greatest alacrity.

THAW WILL MAKE INSANITY PLEA

Council Reach Final Decision in Matter.

Wife Will Be the Chief Witness to Prove Husband Was Mentally Irresponsible When He Killed Stanford White.

New York, August 22.—A decision was reached today by the attorneys for Harry K. Thaw that Thaw's defense to the charge of killing Stanford White will be a plea of emotional insanity. This will include as a part of the defense the declaration that Thaw's insanity existed only until after White was killed and that Thaw is now sane again and has been since the killing.

The decision to make this plea was reached after the reports of two alienists who had visited Thaw yesterday had been communicated to Clifford W. Hartridge, of Thaw's counsel.

It was decided also today that Mrs. Harry K. Thaw will be the chief witness of the defense in its effort to prove that Thaw was insane when he killed White. It was over the question whether a plea of insanity should be made that Thaw and his former counsel disagreed, resulting in the dismissal of the lawyers. The plea insisted on by Thaw's former counsel included the admission that he is now insane, and if accepted by the court and jury would have caused his confinement in an insane asylum. The plea now decided upon makes no such admission.

HIS WIFE NEEDED MONEY.

So Abraham White Took Little Flyer in Wall Street.

New York, August 22.—Abraham White, who is said to have made $2,000,000 last week plunging on the long side of the Harriman stocks and with part of his winning bought the late John A. McCall's estate at West End, Long Branch, made another coup yesterday and immediately went uptown with his winnings to spend them.

On Monday White went to the office of his brokers:

"Mrs. White needs about $5,000 shopping money," he said, "and there is no reason why I should not get it out of Wall street."

Great Northern preferred came out on the ticker at 305.

"That looks cheap. I think I'll get some of that," he said. He took 500 shares at 305 and 500 Northern Pacific at 210. Early in the afternoon Mrs. White arrived at her husband's office prepared to go shopping. White asked her to wait a few minutes, closed out 500 Great Northern preferred at 322 and 500 Northern Pacific at 218. The Great Northern transaction netted him $8,500 and the Northern Pacific $4,000, a total of $12,500.

"That will be enough," he said to Mrs. White, "to buy linen and silver for our new home."

LEARNS OF DUMA'S FALL.

Intelligence Causes Excitement Throughout Siberia.

Victoria, B. C., August 22.—Advices were received by the steamer Empress of China, which arrived from the Orient yesterday, that the news of the dissolution of the duma has caused great excitement in Vladivostok and Siberia. The officials, it is reported, are doing everything possible to keep the dissolution becoming known, but the revolutionary paper published at Nagasaki, Japan, printed a special edition and circulated thousands of papers throughout Siberia giving the news.

The result was that the far eastern army corps held a meeting and decided to mutiny. A meeting of the Russian governors and generals was called for two days before the steamer left Yokohama to plan for the mobilization of troops owing to the situation.

Two Hamburg-American liners, the Silnia and Herdenia, arrived at Vladivostok early in August with full cargoes of military materials.

HEAT KILLS CHICAGOANS.

Seven Deaths Reported During Last Twenty-Four Hours.

Chicago, August 22.—Seven people dead and twenty prostrated as a result of the intense humidity is the record for the twenty-four hours ending at 2 a. m. today. The thermometer only reached 91 yesterday, but the humidity stood at 83 for the day and was the chief cause for the suffering and discomfort. Thousands sought relief from the intense heat at the various lake beaches and swimming pools in the city and the police estimate that 25,000 people were bathing by electric light last night.

BRIGANDS ARE IN CONTROL.

Americans in Syria Appeal to United States Consuls.

Washington, August 22.—Brigandage is so common near Smyrna, Syrina, that Americans have appealed repeatedly to the American consulate there for protection against brigands in the licorice root fields and tobacco plantations adjoining the city and the foreign population.

The unsatisfactory conditions in Smyrna are detailed in a dispatch to the state department from Ernest A. Magnilo, American vice consul to that city. Outlawry is said to exist in Aidein Villayet, one of the suburbs of Smyrna, to a greater degree than in twenty years.

CITY IN CUBA IS CAPTURED BY REBELS

San Louis Attacked By Insurgents and Occupied.

REVOLUTION IS SPREADING OVER ENTIRE ISLAND

Leading Men Are Joining Movement and the Government Faces Grave Crisis—Fifty Rural Guards Made Prisoners—Other Conflicts.

Havana, August 22.—The insurgents in the province of Pinar del Rio captured their first city there today. At 9 o'clock this morning the force led by Pino Guerra, an ex-congressman and an influential man, and who was believed to be many miles eastward, and sundry other insurgent bands attacked San Louis, which is on the railroad about ten miles west of Pinar del Rio city.

A sharp and decisive engagement followed, during which a number of men were killed or wounded.

The town was defended by less than one hundred rural guards, fifty of whom surrendered to the insurgents, and are held as prisoners.

The insurgent forces are in possession of the railroad station and of the town, which is resuming its normal condition. By the capture of San Louis, which has about 10,000 inhabitants, the insurgents have obtained an important base for future operations.

The city of San Louis is situated near the San Sebastian river, 8 miles south by west of the city of Pinar del Rio in a region noted for the production of tobacco.

Uprising Extending.

It became known later in the day that practically all the inhabitants of the town of Aguacate have, with the mayor, declared themselves insurrectionists against the government. A dispatch from Rancho Belo, Santa Clara province, says that a band of insurgents has been organized there under Colonel Reinos, and it is believed that ex-Congressman Mendieta is with them.

Governor Nunez, of Havana province, says that the organization of his loyal bands has begun.

"Precautions are being taken to protect the reservoir and pumping station," he said. "Parties of insurgents have been seen in the neighborhood of both these places."

American dealers have been commissioned to buy hundreds of horses for the rural guard now being recruited.

HARD TO DISTINGUISH LOYAL FROM THE REBELS

Havana, August 22.—While the government is surprised at the uprising in central Cuba, the disaffection of prominent persons in Havana province and the unreliability of some of its ostensible friends, it is nevertheless encouraged by the evidence of loyalty in the rapid enlistment and also by the fact that the insurgents in Pinar del Rio are not gaining any accessions and not yet bold enough to attack a populous neighborhood.

The enlistments of recruits for the rural guards in Havana are proceeding rapidly. The people in the towns continue asking for arms in order to defend the government, but the impossibility of accurately gauging the dominant motives in the Cuban character adds another element of uncertainty to the situation. The government has received a report that ex-Congressman Carlos Mendiata, a leading citizen of Santa Clara, has taken up arms with a large force. While the report is not confirmed, the governmen officials are inclined to believe it, as Mendiata has been regarded with suspicion.

Secretary of the Treasury Fonsterling, one of the most reliable members of the government, said this afternoon that the government had been definitely informed that the insurgents in Santa Clara province were, with the exception of machetes and revolvers, mostly unarmed. The mayor of Aguacato, in Havana province, and several other mayors, apparently are uncertain whether to be loyal to the government or otherwise.

PRESIDENT PALMA ADMITS CUBA WAS NOT PREPARED

Havana, August 22.—President Palma in an interview today said:

"Our situation at first was one of unpreparedness, as is usual in such cases. We are taking a little time to prepare to cope with it. But there is positively no cause for alarm. The movement in Santa Clara province is small, in Mantanzas it is trifling and the bands in Pinar del Rio are smaller than reported and are poorly led."

SERGEANT COX LEADING.

Has Score of 269 Out of 300 in the Rifle Contest.

Chicago, August 22.—At the end of the first day's record firing of the army rifle competition being held at Fort Sheridan, Sergeant Cox, of the Twenty-seventh infantry, led the team with a score of 269 out of a possible 300 points. Today's programme consisted of slow and rapid firing at stationary targets, the ranges being, 200, 400, 500 and 600 yards. In the rapid fire 30 seconds time was given in which to fire the five shots.

Tomorrow the competitors will be given skirmish firing. Friday, today's programme will be repeated and on Saturday, the last day of the shoot, the skirmish firing will be given again.

The twelve men making the best records in the four days' shoot will constitute the team which will represent the regular army at the national rifle shoot to be held at Seagirt, N. J.

PORTE REBUKES BULGARIA.

Contends Bulgaria Has No Right in Internal Affairs.

Vienna, August 22.—The Politische correspondent today published the following dispatch from Sofia:

"The porte has addressed a note to the Bulgarian government expressing its displeasure at the anti-Greek movement in Bulgaria. Bulgaria replied that she regards the Turkish note as impertinent, as the porte has no right to interfere with international affairs of the principality.

"A further Bulgarian note points out the persecutions to which the Greeks and Bulgarians are subjected in Macedonia and concludes:

"'The porte should therefore, above all, establish a settled condition of affairs in Turkey itself.'"

CHINA MUST ACT WITHOUT DELAY

Japan Demands Suppression of Manchuria Brigands.

Victoria, B. C., August 22.—Advices were received here from Japan that strong notes had been addressed to China demanding that the mounted brigands of south Manchuria be suppressed. The brigands have been very active, having attacked and burned a police station at a suburb of Dalny and attacked a company of Japanese troops at the beginning of August.

There were casualties on both sides, the Japanese commander being wounded, a sergeant major killed and twenty of the rank and file killed or wounded. The mounted bandits had two quick firing guns. July 31 the brigands even made a raid in the outskirts of Port Arthur, plundering the store of a Chinaman named Wank, a silk merchant, and killing a Japanese constable.

OHIO DEMOCRATS WIDELY DIFFER

Convention Sits Through Most Of Night.

Bryan Is Indorsed for Presidential Nomination—Indorsement Given to Movement to Have Senators Elected by Direct Vote.

Columbus, Ohio, August 22.—The committee on resolutions of the democratic state convention came near having an all-night session of it in its attempt at bringing on the floor of the convention the differences that had kept the members so long in session. However, final adjournment was taken just before half-past 2 o'clock without having reached any agreement and with the understanding that W. L. Finley intended to bring in a minority report in favor of county option and endeavor to secure the vote of the convention in its favor. The argument has been protracted and pointed and compromise had at one time seemed in sight, but Mr. Finley insisted that he stood for Pattison's policies and no compromise such as suggested could be accepted. Rev. Herbert Bigelow, of Cincinnati, sought to have the matter of county option brought in as a part of the initiative and referendum plank, but it was still unacceptable to the two opinions and then the committee adopted that which could meet with the approval of the members present and left out the plank of contention. This brought Mr. Finley to his feet with the final statement that he regretted to say that this meant that he must bring in a minority report.

New Railroad Laws.

The report of the resolutions committee follows:

"We declare that the present laws for assessing the property of railroads and other public service corporations, should be so changed as to compel the assessment of those properties at not less than their salable value as going concerns and to prevent their evasion of just taxation.

"We believe in free and unqualified home rule, free from state interference. Each city, town and village should be allowed to decide for itself all matters of local policy, especially as between public or private ownership of all public utilities, including street railways, as well as water works and lighting systems, and that provision should be made for submitting such questions to the people upon request from a reasonable number of voters and at such elections a vote of the majority shall preside. Such public ownership should be safeguarded by the merit system of appointment and tenure of office so as to prevent the building up of political machines and the perpetuation of boss rule.

"Oregon Plan" Indorsed.

"We favor the election of United States senators by direct vote of the people and suggest the adoption of the so-called Oregon plan to this end. We direct the state central committee to include in the call for the next state convention, provisions for the nomination of a candidate for United States senator by such convention.

"We favor the initiation and referendum and such legislation and constitutional amendments as will make it elective as to state and local affairs; no franchise or renewal thereof should be granted by any county, or village without first submitting the same to a vote of the people.

"The refusal of the republican majority in the national house of representatives to pass the bill pending before the last session of congress providing that insurance companies and other corporations and trusts should be hereafter prohibited from contributing money to political corruption funds, is a vital issue in the present campaign for the election of members of congress.

Republicans Blamed.

"As the measure was an important and essential one before congress for the control of trusts, the republican majority should be held responsible for the bills cowardly defeated by being smothered in committee.

"It is with feelings of pride that the half million democrats of Ohio note the preparations making to receive the most distinguished private citizen of America upon his return from a tour of foreign lands. His intellectual endowments, his purity of morals, his high ideals, have arrested the attention and compelled the admiration of the people of all climes. He returns to the United States splendidly equipped to grapple with the great problems of state. The Ohio democracy renews its allegiance to his brilliant and matchless leadership. No other name appeals to us for presidential preferment. We cordially indorse our great commoner, William Jennings Bryan, for the democratic nomination for the presidency in 1908 and impatiently await the summons to battle under his banner."

MISUSED UNITED STATES MAILS

Coffee Company Officials in Chicago Arrested.

Chicago, Ill., August 22.—Officials of the Tobasco-Chiapas Trading and Transportation Company and the La Mesa Mills Company, Mexican investment concerns with offices at 16-20 River street, were stopped today by the United States postal authorities. Henry D. Bushnell, president, and I. B. Miller, secretary and trasurer, were arrested and arraigned before United States Commissioner Foote, who held them in bond of $2,000 each and continued the case until August 31.

It is declared by the postal authorities that the operations of Bushnell and Miller, which have covered a period of five years, have netted them $850,000 from innocent investors. Together the two companies were capitalized for $2,000,000. According to the literature of the two concerns, they operate large coffee plantations and own several lines of steamers. The postal authorities declare that such is not the case and that Miller and Bushnell have been paying dividends to investors from the money taken in for stock in the companies. Investors from all parts of the country have been defrauded, it is said.

MAINE REPUBLICANS ACTIVE.

Portland, Me., August 22.—The republican campaign in the first congressional district was formerly opened here tonight with a rally at which Senator Albert J. Beveridge, of Indiana, was the speaker.

Senator Beveridge discussed national affairs and urged that congressmen and senators be elected who will aid President Roosevelt to purify American business and aggressively support his policy of increasing the prosperity of the country.

"I would rather give a thousand dollars than to have the poor health which I had before taking your Peruna.

"It is the best medicine in the world and I will speak well of it as long as I live."

Pe-ru-na For Stomach Catarrh.

The stomach and bowels are lined with mucous membranes. When these membranes become congested it produces the condition known as catarrh.

Peruna has become known the world over as a reliable remedy for catarrh. It promptly relieves the catarrh and the symptoms disappear.

It has proven itself especially efficacious in cases of catarrh of the stomach, ordinarily called dyspepsia. No one thus afflicted should fail to give Peruna a trial, as it frequently gives prompt relief after other remedies fail.

"CURLY" BROWN IS ARRAIGNED

Eight New Orleans Police Are Suspended for Alleged Negligence.

New Orleans, August 22.—Interest in matters pertaining to the operations of "Brown & Co., brokers," prior to the suppression of the alleged pool room feature of htat establishment, was centered today in the preliminary arrangement of the senior member of the firm, H. D. (Curly) Brown, turfman, before the criminal district court, on two of the five pending indictments, the other three coming under the jurisdiction of another court.

Brown entered a plea of not guilty and was released on a bond of $1,000.

His trial will proably occur at the September term of court.

Although eight police officers have been peremptorily suspended for alleged negligence in connection with the "Brown & Co." matter, it is now said there will hardly be further indictments in the case, as the district attorney seems satisfied with having secured the indictment of Brown.

Price Edwards has a majority of about 300 over A. L. Bartlett for judge of the Tallapoosa circuit. News from Haralson, Paulding and Douglas counties with Polk, indicates Edwards' election sure as judge. Solicitor General Fielder carried Polk by about 800 majority. His vote throughout circuit insures his reelection. It was quiet and orderly here, both sides in governor's race working energetically. Hoke Smith's followers claimed the county by 800, but the vote shows a big slump.

PULASKI—HOKE SMITH.

Hawkinsville, Ga., August 22.—(Special.)—Six precincts have been heard from, giving Hoke Smith 100 majority. Six more to hear from. Lewis defeats Hughes.

PUTNAM—HOKE SMITH.

Eatonton, Ga., August 22.—(Special.)—There was a small vote cast in Putnam. Hoke Smith carries the county by a good majority.

QUITMAN—HOWELL.

Georgetown, Ga., August 22.—(Special.) Democracy still lives in Quitman. This county goes for Howell by 43 majority. Returns are all in.

RABUN—HOWELL.

Clayton, Ga., August 22.—(Special.)—Howell carries Rabun by 100 to 200 plurality.

RICHMOND—HOKE SMITH.

Augusta, Ga., August 22.—(Special.)—The total vote of Richmond county, with two small county precincts missing, is Estill 391, Howell 136, Russell 20, Hoke Smith 1,535, Jim Smith 13. Hoke's majority is 975.

The magnitude of the victory is a great surprise to the friends of the other candidates, and was not generally expected by the ardent Hokites. It was known some days ago that, besides Colonel Estill and Hoke Smith the others were out of the running. Howell having lost strength owing to lack of effort on the part of his supporters, but no one realized how strong Hoke Smith was. The vote was exceedingly light, and represents all factions. Mr. Smith having succeeded in securing the favor of both A. P. A. and Catholics, Eveites and anti-Eveites.

A peculiar incident came near turning the city vote to Vincent Sanford against William A. Wright for the comptroller generalship. Honorable Boykin Wright is intensely unpopular in the fourth and fifth wards, where A. P. A. sentiment is strongest. Some one circulated a report there that Comptroller Wright was a brother of Boykin's, and before the rumor could be corrected, a large vote had been piled up for Sanford, who, moreover, has relatives here and is well liked.

Johnson and Merritt ran close for the state school commissionership, the former carrying the fifth ward overwhelmingly, but losing in the other wards by a small minority.

There was some scratching of Congressman Hardwick ond one or two of the other candidates. The voting was without incident, and the day passed quietly. A black squall early in the afternoon deterred many from going to the polls.

Sylvania, Ga., August 22.—(Special.)—Screven county goes for Hoke Smith. Brannen carried the county for the long term; Overstreet for short term.

ROCKDALE—HOKE SMITH.

Conyers, Ga., August 22.—(Special.)—Indications point to Hoke Smith's carrying Rockdale by small majority. Rus-

SPALDING—HOKE SMITH.

Griffin, Ga., August 22.—(Special.)—Hoke Smith will get Spalding by a small majority.

Griffin, Ga., August 22.—(Special.)—Spalding county goes to Hoke Smith by over 200 majority.

STEPHENS—RUSSELL.

Toccoa, Ga., August 22.—(Special.)—All except Toccoa precinct heard from give Russell 117, Hoke Smith 111, Jim Smith 8. Barrett defeats Capps for the legislature.

STEWART—HOKE SMITH.

Lumpkin, Ga., August 22.—(Special.)—Hoke Smith carries Stewart county by about 150 majority. Hughes carries the county for congress by 30 majority.

Quitman county gives Clark Howell 128, Hoke Smith 85. Rains, for judge of Pataula circuit, defeats Worrill by 115.

With one precinct to hear from, Stewart gives Smith 175 majority; Hughes 42 majority.

SUMTER—HOKE SMITH.

Americus, Ga., August 22.—(Special.)—Sumter county is conceded to Hoke Smith by a small plurality, possibly 125. The other gubernatorial candidates received but a small vote, as the fact was recognized that the race here was entirely between Hoke Smith and Howell. A large vote was polled in the county, and some country precincts are not yet reported. At Americus precinct the count will not be completed before morning, but conservative estimates give Sumter to Hoke Smith by a small plurality. The congressional race between E. B. Lewis and Dudley Hughes is exceedingly close, with the chances favoring Lewis by a narrow margin.

Americus, Ga., August 22.—(Special.)—Returns are meager, though Sumter is thought safe for Hoke Smith. He carries Americus. Hughes carries the county for congress over Lewis.

TALBOT—HOKE SMITH.

Talbotton, Ga., August 22.—(Special.)—Talbot county goes for Hoke Smith by 160 majority.

Complete consolidated returns of Talbot county gives Hoke Smith 381, Russell 194, Howell 15, Estill 4.

TALIAFERRO—HOKE SMITH.

Crawfordville, Ga., August 22.—(Special.)—Hoke Smith carries Taliaferro county by about 125 majority.

TATTNALL—HOKE SMITH.

Collins, Ga., August 22.—(Special.)—Incomplete returns indicate that Hoke Smith has carried Tattnall by a small majority. Russell is running him very close and it will take the official count to determine. William A. Wright and W. B. Merritt have carried the county by a large majority. For congress, first district, W. W. Sheppard has likely carried the county over J. A. Brannen. For short term for congress the count is very close between Clifton and Overstreet and it will take the official returns to tell.

TELFAIR—HOKE SMITH.

McRae, Ga., August 22.—(Special.)—Telfair county will give Hoke Smith over 600 majority.

Helena precinct gives Hoke Smith 83, Howell 14, Estill 1, Russell 2, Jim Smith 0.

The vote of Telfair county is: Hoke Smith 634, Howell 188, other candidates 47. One small precinct not heard from.

TERRELL—HOKE SMITH.

Dawson, Ga., August 22.—(Special.)—Four precincts show Hoke Smith 225, Howell 142, Russell 3, Estill 2. Dawson and two country precincts yet to hear from. Hoke Smith will have not less than 100 majority in these, carrying Terrell county by about 250 majority. Reports received from all counties of the Pataula circuit indicate the nomination of A. M. Raines, of Dawson, over W. S. Worrill, of Cuthbert, for judge, by about 75 majority.

TIFT—HOKE SMITH.

Tifton, Ga., August 22.—(Special.)—Unofficial returns indicate Hoke Smith has carried the county by about 100 plurality. Howell second; Estill gets about 100 votes. A heavy vote was polled in the county.

Smith's plurality in Tift county 137.

THOMAS—HOKE SMITH.

Boston, Ga., August 22.—(Special.)—This precinct gives Hoke Smith 151, Clark Howell 12, Estill 14, Russell 1, Jim Smith 0.

TOOMBS—HOKE SMITH.

Lyons, Ga., August 22.—(Special.)—Toombs county is conceded to Hoke Smith by 100 majority. It is impossible to get the returns from the country districts.

Lyons as follows: Estill 20, Howell 11, Russell 104, Smith 93.

Thomasville, Ga., August 22.—(Special.) With only two districts to be heard from Thomas county gives Hoke Smith 812, Estill 179, Howell 75.

TROUP—HOKE SMITH.

LaGrange, Ga., August 22.—(Special.)—The votes of LaGrange, West Point, Hogansville, Mountville and O'Neal precincts have been heard from and in these the result is as follows: Hoke Smith, 739; Howell, 180; Russell, 28. Eight precincts are yet to be heard from. Several of these will be for Howell, but will not change the result.

It now looks as if Johnson will carry the county over Merritt.

TURNER—RUSSELL.

Ashburn, Ga., August 22.—(Special.)—Turner county goes for Russell by 40 majority over Smith.

TWIGGS—HOWELL.

Jeffersonville, Ga., August 22.—(Special.)—The returns are not all in, but there are enough to show that Howell has carried the county.

Sandersville, Ga., August 22.—(Special.) Six precincts out of twenty-one in Washington county give Hoke Smith a small majority, with Judge Russell a close second.

Sandersville, Ga., August 22.—(Special.) Returns in twelve precincts in Washington county show Hoke Smith 555, Russell 302, Howell 39.

WAYNE—ESTILL OR SMITH.

Jesup, Ga., August 22.—(Special.)—The returns are incomplete. Estill and Hoke Smith are neck and neck. Whaley is probably elected senator. Milliken will succeed himself in the house by a small majority.

WEBSTER—HOKE SMITH.

Preston, Ga., August 22.—(Special.)—Webster county gives Hoke Smith about 250, Howell about 90, Russell about 50, Estill about 6.

WHITE—RUSSELL.

Cleveland, Ga., August 22.—(Special.)—White county will give Russell a good majority.

WHITFIELD—HOKE SMITH.

Dalton, Ga., August 22.—(Special.)—Hoke Smith will carry Whitfield county by not less than 500 majority.

WILCOX—HOKE SMITH.

Abbeville, Ga., August 22.—(Special.)—All precincts heard from give Wilcox to Hoke Smith by 150 majority. Lewis carries the county for congress and Lawson for the judgeship.

WILKES—HOKE SMITH.

Washington, Ga., August 22.—(Special.)—Returns from all precincts of the county are in, with one exception, showing that Hoke Smith carried Wilkes county by a majority of 120. The precinct not heard from is a small one and will not affect the latest count. The unofficial returns from all precincts, including Washington, show the following returns: Hoke Smith 571, Jim Smith 446, Howell 15, Russell 13, Estill 11. No authentic returns were obtainable at this point from Lincoln county, owing to a broken telephone wire. An authentic report gives Lincoln county to Hoke Smith by 25 majority over Jim Smith. The election passed off quietly. There was some demonstration by Hoke Smith supporters follwing the announcement of the result in Washington and Wilkes county.

Washington, Ga., August 22.—(Special.)—Twelve precincts give Hoke Smith 307, Jim Smith 253. Count in Washington has just begun. Hoke Smith will carry the county by 100.

Irwinton, Ga., August 22.—(Special.)—Hoke Smith carries Wilkinson county by estimate of 2 to 1 over other candidates.

QUIET ELECTION HELD IN COUNTY

Police Officers Had Very Little to Do During Day.

Atlanta Looked Like the Scene of Some Big Football Game, With Everybody in Town Wearing Gay Colors.

The long awaited day arrived and closed with a great deal of shouting on the part of many partisans, and while one of the largest votes on record was polled, the day passed quietly.

The day broke hot and sunshiny, and while the temperatures were not startlingly high, the humidity was most uncomfortable until in the afternoon a shower arrived which cooled off the atmosphere. On every side were unmistakable evidences of an election, with great crowds about each polling place.

Atlanta was simply swathed in ribbons. There were bits of silk and satin of every hue with the names of the candidates printed conspicuously on each. While many of these were modestly pinned to the lapels of coats, there were others more enthusiastic who insisted upon draping their manly forms in festoons of these political labels and wearing still more as hat bands.

Nor were these ribbon-wearers men alone. That the ladies took the greatest interest in the contest was proved by the way in which these same political ribbons were prettily and attractively used as decorations, and many of these, meeting the wearers of similar labels, threw conventionally to the winds and cheered as lustily as is considered good form in feminine circles.

When the announcement of W. R. Joyner's election was announced but little time elapsed before the famous fife and drum corps of the fire department hurried to the house of the chief and serenaded their much-loved chief executive.

In spite of the tremendous interest felt in the results, the day passed quietly. There were many arguments indulged in, but the moment these became so heated as to threaten trouble friends interposed, and the long awaited day closed in a way most creditable to the citizenship of Atlanta, so far as the preserving of the best of order was concerned.

Naturally, there was most excitement at the various polling places in the city. From the moment the polls were first opened a waiting crowd of voters in each ward immediately jostled with each other in their eagerness to have the privilege of casting the first vote in the ward in which they were registered. In several of the wards so large was the waiting crowd at the opening of the polls that long lines had to be formed and quite a wait resulted owing to the filling of the booths.

Old-timers announced early in the day that the result would show a larger percentage of the registered vote polled than ever before. When the votes were counted these still held to this opinion.

In most of the wards the periods of heaviest voting were from 7 o'clock until 10 o'clock in the morning and from noon until 3 o'clock in the afternoon. For this reason there were many who believed that the shower which came up in the afternoon had but little effect on the total vote cast. And any way, the weather cleared later. But in most of the wards the so-called supper vote was generally smaller than usual and most all of the votes were polled by 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

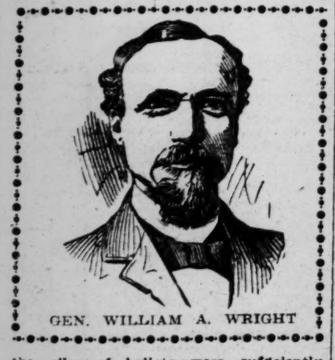

All through the day the expectant voter found it necessary to run the gauntlet of a very noisy and enthusiastic bunch of supporters of the various candidates. Not only were ribbons omnipresent but cards announcing the names of the different men in the contested races were shoved into the hands of every would-be voter in the hopes of converting him to vote for the candidate named on the card at the last minute.

Little Use for Policemen.

While there were plenty of guardians of the law present at each polling precinct, they had rather an easy day of it. Except for much shouting but few demands were made upon their services. Many made special comment of the general good nature which prevailed in spite of the great interest manifested in the results.

With the arrival of 7 o'clock the polls were officially closed, and then the ward managers and clerks began the rather tedious work of counting the many ballots which were piled high upon the tables in the polling places. After straightening out the long ballots the managers and clerks in the polling places of the state ticket proceeded first to count the votes in the gubernatorial race. As the ballots for the candidates for governor were separated it became evident that the Hoke Smith piles were high and heavy.

In the mayoralty race, the closeness of the two candidates was shown from the very first, for in most of the wards the piles of ballots were sufficiently near the same size to make the outcome a most interesting and exciting one. In the city polling places, these ballots were the first counted, and the results proved that the race was as close as the evenness of the piles at first indicated.

Very shortly after the closing of the polls in the city of Atlanta, the down-town crowds began to gather. Here it was that the citizens mobilized in very large numbers, and so thickly were they massed together watching and waiting for the returns, that the trolley cars were blocked at times while at best they were only able to creep their way through the dense phalanxes of humanity. As the polls in the country precincts closed early, there was little waiting on the returns. As the bulletins were flashed on the canvas the names of the candidates were most lustily shouted. But these great crowds, like the smaller ones about the polling places during the day, were good natured.

Among those who watched these bulletins were many ladies who still wore the names of their chosen candidates in the shape of silk and satin ribbons. As the crowds grew larger and more noisy, the feminine delegations started homeward. But even after boarding the trolleys they continued to wave their ribbons and shout the names of their candidates through the open windows.

Later on, as the results of each and every contest became known, parades of singing, shouting partisans were formed

I. F. STYRON,
New Councilman of the Fifth Ward.

and around through the streets of the down town districts these marched to the music of a band secured for the purpose. In this way they shouted the names of Hoke Smith or "Cap" Joyner, or used these same names in songs suddenly arranged for the purpose, and noisily gave vent to their enthusiasm until the big skyscrapers looming up into the darkness of the sky, echoed and reechoed with these paeans of victory.

First Ward.

At the first ward, one of the most important of the county, with a registration of 1,052 votes, although many enthusiastic supporters were in evidence all during the day, the crowd was orderly.

The polling was brisk from the beginning, and by noon over half of the voting capacity had balloted. Charles I. Brannan was exceptionally strong in this ward and his supporters worked diligently all day. Dr. A. L. Curtis, personally looked after his interests in his home ward, and exhibited marked ability as a campaigner, carrying the ward by a substantial plurality.

Second Ward.

Joyner and Goodwin fought to the finish in the second ward, the latter getting a bare majority of 13 votes, the final being 843 to 830 against the chief. Dr. Curtis in the three-cornered race for alderman from the first ward led Frank Hilburn and L. T. Lahatte by a plurality of 33 votes. Out of the 2,208 voters registered in this ward—the largest in the city, 1,688 came to the polls yesterday. The candidates who had no opposition received full votes.

Third Ward.

With a vote of 676 to 614 Thomas H. Goodwin carried the third ward over his opponent, Chief Joyner, in the mayoralty race. A. L. Curtis lead the running for alderman from the first ward with 444 votes. Frank A. Hilburn was second with 395, and M. T. LaHatte a close third, with 391.

For councilman from the third ward C. W. Mangum lead a runaway race with a total of 828 votes, a majority of 384 over his one opponent, Tom. L. Bishop. A total of 1,300 votes was polled, failing to reach the registration figures by 416.

Fourth Ward.

The day passed quietly in the fourth ward, a large vote following immediately upon the opening of the polls. There was a generous display of ribbons bearing the names of the several candidates and considerable partisan enthusiasm expressed throughout the day in a good natured way, only one argument in the morning threatening anything like trouble and this was quickly obviated by friendly interference.

When the results were made known, the small majority of W. R. Joyner caused considerable comment. The polls were just around the corner from engine house No. 6, and it was expected that the fire chief would poll a larger majority than 76 votes, as shown by the tally sheet. Another big surprise in this ward was the big showing made by H. L. Culberson in the race for county treasurer, 204 votes being polled in his favor. Mayor Woodward was his nearest competitor with 193 votes.

There was evidently some misunderstanding regarding the vote for associate justices, according to expressions of some of the officials connected with the polls, for very many scratched one of the names of the two justices when two were to be voted for. As a result, while there was no opposition, the official count showed only 787 votes cast for Samuel C. Atkinson and 888 for Joseph Henry Lumpkin. A. O. Bacon, for United States senator, led the ticket with 957 votes.

Fifth Ward.

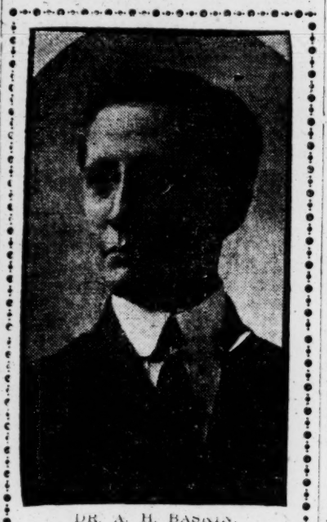

The fifth ward, long known as "the bloody fifth," failed to live up to its reputation yesterday, for while the voting was spirited, and the utmost rivalry prevailed among the candidates' friends who worked at the polls, good feeling prevailed during the twelve hours in which the polls remained open.

Although 1,387 voters registered in this ward, only 1,041 voted in the city primary and but 1,033 in the state primary.

Hoke Smith led the gubernatorial ticket with 633 votes, Clark Howell received 263, Richard B. Russell 95 and James M. Smith 2.

The ward gave Thomas M. Goodwin a majority of 197 votes over "Cap" Joyner for mayor, Goodwin receiving 612 votes, Joyner 415.

Curtis led in this ward for alderman from the first ward, receiving 416 votes,

In the councilmanic race in the fifth ward there were three entries. I. F. Styron bore off the plum, receiving 477 votes, V. M. Barrett 152, and A. Q. Adams 393.

The other candidates on the city ticket had no opposition, but all were scratched to some extent.

The other contests on the state ticket were settled as follows:

For comptroller general, William A. Wright received 702 votes to 266 for Vincent T. Sanford; William B. Merritt received 462 votes for state school commissioner against 345 for Mark Johnston, and J. G. Woodward led in the race for county treasurer, 340 votes being cast for him; Culberson following with 189 and Macon C. Sharp running third with 164 votes. The other five candidates for this office received smaller votes.

General Clement A. Evans, for prison commissioner, and Philip Cook, for secretary of state, led the state ticket in the ward, each receiving 1,010 votes, all other candidates having no opposition being scratched by a few more voters than were these two.

Sixth Ward.

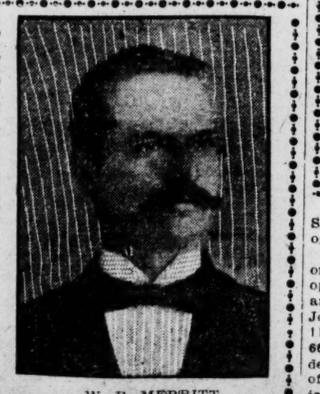

In the sixth ward the closest race in the city primary was that for alderman. Curtis polled 536 votes, his next closest opponent being LaHatte with 474. Hilbrun received 200 even. Fifty-one ballots were scratched.

Joyner's majority over Goodwin in this ward was 354, the vote standing: Joyner 600, Goodwin 448. There were thirteen ballots scratched.

Peeples, the candidate for city treasurer, and Barefield, candidate for city sexton, led the ticket in the sixth ward. Each received 1,250 out of a total number cast of 1,26..

State and County Primary.

Out of 1,649 total registration in the sixth ward, 1,265 votes were polled. Mr. Howell carried this precinct by 18 votes, receiving 605 to Mr. Smith's 587. Judge Russell was third, with 51, Estill receiving 9 and James Smith 2.

In the race for comptroller general, William A. Wright received the nomination over Vincent T. Sanford by a majority of 977. The vote was Wright 1,121 and Sanford 144. The vote for state school commissioner was William B. Merritt 730, and mark Johnston 460, giving Mr. Merritt a majority of 270. H. L. Culberson led in the county treasurer's race; having 29 votes over Macon C. Sharp, who ran second with 290 votes to Mr. Culberson's 319. The rest of the vote was J. G. Woodward 207, W. W. Draper 139, C. L. Brannan 106, Peter F. Clarke 85, C. H. Girardeau 46 and J. J. Barnes 42.

The voting was steady all day long at the polls on Peachtree street, and excellent order was preserved. More Hoke Smith men appeared to be in evidence during the day than Howell supporters, yet Mr. Howell carried the precinct, which was Mr. Smith's home district.

Seventh Ward.

There was a quiet time out in the seventh ward yesterday. In the state and county primary 467 votes were polled and in the city primary 455.

Goodwin put up a strong fight in this ward, and made a great showing against Chief Joyner, getting 215 votes against 231 for the chief.

Hoke Smith secured 240 votes in the race for governor against 191 for Clark Howell. Mark Johnson totaled 167 votes in his race against William B. Merritt, who secured 264.

Eighth Ward.

In the eighth ward Clark Howell men were in evidence from morning until night, and it looked like nearly every man in the neighborhood about 1 o'clock were Howell men.

The vote showed a total of 214 for

DR. B. E. PEARCE.
He Will Represent Fourth Ward in Council.

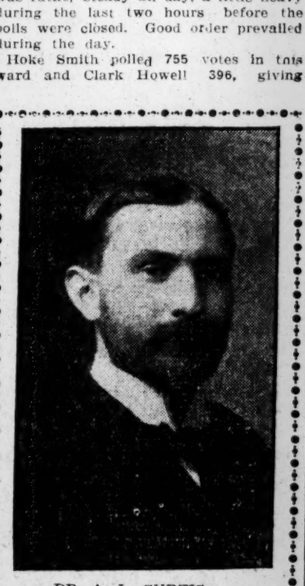

Howell against 170 for Hoke Smith, and as a result of the victory of the Howell men in this ward the Smith supporters lost a number of wagers which had been made that Howell would not carry his own ward.

Chief Joyner showed a safe majority in the eighth against Tom Goodwin. Goodwin men were few and far between during the greater part of the day. The total vote showed 284 for the new mayor against 104 for Goodwin.

County and State Primary.

Out of 1,716 registrations, 1,323 votes were polled in the third ward. The voting was rather steady all day, a little heavy during the last two hours before the polls were closed. Good order prevailed during the day.

Hoke Smith polled 755 votes in this ward and Clark Howell 396, giving

Smith a majority in the governor's race of 396.

Woodward carried the ward two to one over Culberson, the next nearest opponent. Woodward received 417 votes and Culberson 237. Merritt defeated Johnson for state school commissioner by 119 votes, Merritt receiving a total of 664 and Johnson 545. William A. Wright defeated Vincent T. Sanford for the office of comptroller general by a majority of 807 votes, Wright receiving a total of 919 and Sanford 312.

LEWIS DEFEATS DUDLEY HUGHES

Popular Congressman Returned by the Third District.

Counties Heard From Up to Midnight Give Lewis Pluralities Which Hughes Will Not Be Able to Overcome—Close in Sumter County.

Americus, Ga., August 22.—(Special.)—Equal in interest with the gubernatorial race today was that for congress between Hon. E. B. Lewis, present congressman for the third district, and Hon. Dudley M. Hughes.

Here in Sumter the race is very close. Two country precincts had not reported tonight. Aside from these Mr. Hughes had 45 plurality in the other precincts heard from already, and the result at the court house here will determine the question in Sumter.

Mr. Lewis carried Macon county by over 400 plurality. Stewart went for Hughes by about 50 votes. Schley is in the Hughes column by only 35 votes, while Webster probably gives Lewis a good plurality. Lee is for Lewis, as is Dooly, by a large vote.

In Crisp Lewis' plurality is over 400, while Lewis probably has a small lead in Houston. Nothing could be heard here tonight from Pulaski and Wilcox, both large and populous counties. Twiggs, Mr. Hughes' home county, gave him only 250 plurality over Lewis. Crawford county went for Hughes by a small vote.

Up to 11 o'clock tonight the result in all the counties heard from gave Mr. Lewis a plurality of about 800 votes. His election in the district seems fully assured. Under the rules adopted by the congressional committee there was a blanket primary and the large pluralities received by Mr. Lewis in the counties indicated will more than offset any that Mr. Hughes may have in the counties not yet heard from.

Ibsen and His Plays.

(William Archer in The Reader.)

I had often heard him confess to a great distaste for seeing his own plays on the stage. "I have quite definite conceptions," he said, "of my own characters, and the actors come between me and those conceptions, in some cases permanently distorting or obscuring them." It was one of the drawbacks to the various festivals that had been held from time to time in his honor—in Berlin, Meiningen, Copenhagen, Stockholm, etc.—that he was always expected to sit out one or more of his plays. I was reminded of Dr. Schlenther's account of the first production of "Ghosts" in German, at the Ausburg Stadt theater. Ibsen was present, whether at a dress rehearsal or at the performance I do not remember. He sat with a friend in the stalls, and throughout the evening kept on pinching his companion and ejaculating, "Oh! Oh!" in apparent agony, varying the exclamation at some points—as when Regina made her appearance in peasant costume—with an emphatic, "O, nein!" English and American stage managers, please note.

Encore.

(From The Catholic Standard and Times.)

"Well," asked the host, "what do you think of that wine?"

"Well," replied his guest, smacking his lips as he laid down his glass, "it reminds me of a good story."

"Go ahead. Lets have it."

"Oh, you misunderstand me. I merely wish to imply that it's worth repeating.

CRIME REIGNING IN CZAR'S EMPIRE

Wholesale Arrests Has No on Situation.

Police Appear To Be Utterly Powerless to Cope with the Lawless Ones—Jews Are To Be Assisted Immediately.

St. Petersburg, August 22.—In spite of wholesale arrests and deportation of revolutionists, the daily chronicle of murders and robberies is not appreciably diminishing. The police seem utterly powerless to capture the perpetrators of the crimes. They do not make an arrest in one case out of twenty-five. While the revolutionary opposition to the government has thus degenerated into a campaign of crime, the three principal parties, the constitutional democrats, Octoberists and regenerationists, are drifting. The efforts to affect an amalgamation appear to have failed of their purpose, and all the leaders seem to be at sea regarding what tartics to pursue.

The Rech, which reappeared today, makes an attempt to analyze the situation, but evidently it does not know which way to turn. Melnikoff, who was associated with the famous Russian revolutionary agitator, Gershcunin, in the conspiracy which was responsible for the assassination of Mr. Bogodepoff and former Minister of the Interior Siplaguine, in company with Sasanoff, the assassin of Former Minister of the Interior Von Plehve, and several other terrorists, has escaped from Acktaul, Trans-Baikalia.

This party was the last batch of purisoners taken from the Schuesselsburg fortress.

It is announced that some amelioration of the condition of the Jews will be made without awaiting the election of parliament. A commission is sitting at the ministry of the interior, collaborating a general project of laws, whose provisions, however, will only include an extension of the limits of the pale of residence and ane xtension of the rights of higher education.

SICK HEADACHE

Careers for the Nervous.

(From La Revue des Idees.)

Give to the nervously disposed a career, especially if he is rich. Do not, however, choose one which will occupy his mind outside the time allotted to it. Active healthy employment like the military are good for the nervous. On the contrary literary and medical work will develop dangerous tendencies. Politics, with the fever that it produces, is an admirable ground for the culture of neurosis.

ATLANTA, GA., August 23, 1906.

Now for the fall trade and the state fair.

The factories keep coming to Atlanta, but there is room for more.

Mrs. Leslie Carter-Payne had to get a new matrimonial hyphen.

Uncle Joe Cannon stands pat. So does President Gompers, of the American Federation of Labor.

That last big bank looting in Chicago suggests that it is high time for bank examinations that examine.

Wouldn't it be just too awful for anything if Son in Law Longworth should not be returned to congress?

It was a long, hot political campaign, but it is not believed that the crops have suffered on account of it.

The French papers say that Colonel Bryan, like all Americans, is vain. It takes a Frenchman to accuse Americans of vanity!

A Mr. Drinkwater is on the Bryan reception committee, but it may be reassuring to note that he is in a hopeless minority.

In New Jersey mosquitoes are spoken of as "birds." They resemble the humming bird in size and diaphanous, gauzy effect in flight.

Fog is said to be excellent for the complexion. This is calculated to cause a hegira of American belles to dear old London.

The Russian military grafters stole 1,500 cars from the Trans-Siberian railway during the war. By some strange oversight the rails and crossties were not molested.

The republicans of Texas have nominated Hetty Green's son as their candidate for governor. If they expect Hetty to "loosen up" in politics they don't know her.

One of those unspeakable Chicago professors has discovered that woman was created before man. The "higher critics" of theology might investigate this astounding discovery.

Probably what Colonel Bryan meant to say was that he had not changed his mind on the quantitative theory of money. The ratio is neither here nor there. The theory has been vindicated.

Kaiser Bill is said to be extremely fond of onions and even garlic. This may be one reason why his royal osculations with King Ned seem to increase, rather than lessen, to strained relations between England and Germany.

If President Gompers gets Congressman Littlefield's political scalp, the labor leader will be able to command considerable respect from republican congressmen in Washington the next time he goes there to lobby for his cause.

A Syracuse "disciple of the occult" claims to have visited Mars recently in his "astral spirit." The lunatic asylums of the land are full of disciples of the occult who visit all the planets and hades so frequently that their narratives of travel are exceedingly trite.

A Kansas paper relates that when a man of that town went away on a vacation his wife thought she'd be lonesome, but she went to the drug store and got a bottle of booze, and every time she got blue she pulled the cork and smelled the contents. Reminded her so much of Bill.

There is said to be enough money on deposit in the Kansas banks to give every man, woman and child in the state $600 per capita if an equal division were made. As Kansas is purely an agricultural state and the money belongs almost wholly to farmers, it is evident enough that farming is not the poverty-pinched occupation it once was.

A New England republican contemporary declares: "The conditions of business constitute a practical argument for the retention of a protectionist congress and for promoting Roosevelt republicanism." It would be interesting to hear "Roosevelt republicanism," without any mental reservation or equivocation whatsoever, authoritatively define its attitude on stand-patism versus tariff revision.

THE CONSTITUTION AND MR. HOWELL ON THE RESULT.

After more than a year of unrest the end of the longest and most bitter political campaign ever waged in Georgia is here, and the verdict has been rendered.

Everybody rejoices at that.

God reigns, the people are busy and rich in the rewards of labor and industry, and the state is at the pinnacle of its most abundant and far-reaching prosperity.

Everybody rejoices at that, and the hope is universal that in the material things of progress, enterprise, development, industry and substantial achievement for the good of the state, the incoming administration may produce as well for the commonwealth as has been done so notably by the present administration and by its long line of democratic predecessors.

Everybody will rejoice at that, and no one will more earnestly lend a helping hand to that end than The Constitution.

Long established custom has made the post mortem statement of unsuccessful candidates a necessary aftermath of the result. The public wants, and expects, the "whys" and "wherefores" from the standpoint of the candidates—not that it is prepared to accept such statements as the only explanation of the result, for every voter has his own idea as to that, and is as much entitled to his own views, and is as well prepared to draw his own conclusion, as are the men who have been the targets for their criticism or the objects of their support.

Whatever may be the views, the reasoning, or the explanation of others as to the causes leading to the result, and the condition it creates, I give mine for what they are worth, and with the assurance that, so far as I am concerned, I accept it with composure and without personal bitterness—with regret it is true, that my unswerving party loyalty has been made the weakest point in my armor as a candidate, and that for that very loyalty to my party I have been made a sacrifice at the hands of those against whose assaults on the party I have stood with unflinching zeal and unremitting determination. In all these years I have necessarily made political opponents of those whose antagonism to my party has led me to antagonize them. As a loyal democrat I had no other course to pursue.

Under the leadership of Mr. Watson this very large element—not those who were FORMERLY populists, but those who are NOW populists, were brought into the democratic primary, moved primarily by the openly avowed purpose to punish those who have heretofore stood against their assaults on the party, and who had no apologies to offer. Nor have they come back as democrats. Mr. Watson was frank enough to refuse to declare his intention to support the democratic nominee for president two years hence, reserving for himself the right to direct the democratic nomination in the state primary this year, and then to lead his forces against the party two years hence. And no man can blame him if he does this very thing, for he has not concealed his right to do so. It is a condition without precedent in the politics of this, or any other state.

But if this had been a straight contest between the avowed antagonists of the party, on the one side, and the constituted organization on the other—the result would have been different. In the railroad question, however, there was found all the possibilities of an issue strong enough to produce an irresistible combination.

Seizing upon the public distrust of the railroads and the universal hostility to them—a hostility as just in many respects as it is widespread—the ideal elements were at hand on which to base such an appeal to ignorance, prejudice and passion as was never known in the state.

In all my record as a legislator, or an editor, not one single instance was found to show that I had ever sacrificed the interests of the people in any act, or vote, in which the welfare of the people came in conflict with that of the corporations. But the mere fact that personal relationship connected me, even vaguely, with the suggestion of railroad interests was enough to put the poison at work in the veins of the body politic. It was no answer to say that never, at any time in my life, did I own a penny's interest in any railroad property; nor that the relationship connection referred to had not even remotely sought, nor served, to sway me in my duties as a legislator during my long years of service in the house or senate.. The fact that I supported the Glenn tax bill, editorially and in the house, and the franchise tax bill, editorially and in the senate, was no reply to vague insinuations, notwithstanding these two measures are bringing more money into the pockets of the tax payers of the state than all other railroad tax measures enacted since the first mile of railroad was built in the state, the tax derived from these two measures defraying one-third of the total expenses of many of the counties of the state.

But my support of these and other measures demanded by the people, was enough to deprive me of the support of a single railroad interest in the state. During this whole campaign I HAVE NOT ASKED, NOR RECEIVED, ONE DOLLAR FROM ANY RAILROAD ON EARTH and even my adversaries will admit that I have not received the support or encouragement of the head of a single railroad system. Nor was I entitled to it by virtue of any support I had ever given them in any measure affecting their interests as against what I believed to be the interest of the public.

A few years ago, many merchants of Atlanta, moved by a spirit of disregard of their rights and privileges by the railroads, organized for their own protection to enforce their just demands. One of its attorneys became a candidate for governor.

I was a member of the organization and a liberal contributor to its purposes. Perhaps my views were not as extreme as was demanded, though in every contest I was an active participant, personally and editorially. These men are among the best citizens of Atlanta—many of them my personal friends; and yet, moved by an irresistible determination to accomplish their purpose, they were led into the support of the man who PROMISED most, regardless of ability to redeem the pledges so made.

I do not believe that a railroad owned and operated by foreign capital should be put on the block and sold out.

I do not believe that it is fair to make comparison between a strictly rail rate and a strictly water rate, promising to put both on an equality. It has never yet been, and never will be, done. But I do believe that Atlanta and every other Georgia town is entitled to as low a rate as any other place similarly situated and no man living will go to any greater legal extreme than I will to accomplish that end.

I do not believe that the Georgia railroad commission has, or can be given, the power to regulate rates OUTSIDE of the state. It has full and plenary power to control state rates, but only the interstate commerce commission can deal with rates BETWEEN THE STATES, that power having just been vested in it by congress after a contest of several years in which I wrote editorial after editorial urging that action.

But the response of the primary indicates that the people are determined to at least take the chance on each of these propositions—to put an end to the ownership and operation of foreign corporations in Georgia—to wipe out any difference between all water and all rail rates—and to say that the state shall regulate interstate rates! So be it!

So intense—and so unjust—has been the purpose of those who have been moved by their grievances against the railroads that they were willing enough to become part of any combination to force a redress of their grievances.

The old time enemies of the party were against me—and it was apparent that it was feasible to effect a combination in that direction. The rest is known.

Mr. Watson has boldly declared that his support of so-called disfranchisement legislation is based upon his belief that ONLY BY SUCH LEGISLATION CAN THE WHITE VOTE OF THE STATE BE DIVIDED. To get his support the pledge of this legislation has, therefore, been a dominant feature of this campaign. I am opposed to such legislation because I believe the negro is under better political control in Georgia than in any other southern state. He is today out of politics in this state. On an educational qualification governing the franchise he will in time be brought in as never before.

I oppose it because I believe that such disfranchisement legislation as is proposed will, if framed to meet the demands of the federal constitution, disfranchise thousands of white men. If it is not to be framed, nor enforced, in accordance with the federal constitution, then it will be NULLIFICATION, pure and simple. We have had enough of nullification in the south and I do not believe that it is wise for the people to take the chance of entering upon that field again—even for the purpose of "dividing the white vote of Georgia." I have some old-fashioned ideas of loyalty to the laws of my state and the federal constitution, and it will take some stronger arguments than those yet advanced to convince me that we should change the best system yet adopted for controlling the negro vote—a system which has long since eliminated him as a factor in politics, and legally so—and substituting for it a new one, based on open defiance of the federal constitution, and perhaps bringing in its trail a series of penalties, sacrifices and punishments not endured since the days of reconstruction. The worst of it all is that in the end IT WILL BE THE WHITE MAN WHO WILL BE DISFRANCHISED, while the negro, now practically disfranchised in Georgia, becomes the beneficiary of this mad campaign for nullification.

But, as I have already said, every man is entitled to his own views and I give mine only for what they are worth.

Now that it is all over, the best thing for us all to do is to accept the result and pull together for the welfare of the state

I renew my pledge of heart, hand and head, to the perpetuation of its glory.

Georgia is "good enough for me," whoever may be her chief executive. I have never yet sought the shadow in defeat and it is too late to begin now. Whatever happens I prefer to live in the sunshine of the sentiment so aptly expressed by Stanton:

"This old world we're livin' in
Is mighty hard to beat;
We get a thorn with every rose,
But—ain't the roses sweet!"

Defeat is the thorn today, but I would not exchange it for the friendships that have been so generously manifested in this campaign. They are the roses that make defeat easy!

CLARK HOWELL.

Advanced Divorce Legislation.

The so-called divorce problem promises to figure prominently in American legislation within the next few years and an earnest effort will be made to have the various state legislatures enact uniform divorce laws. President Roosevelt is understood to be an ardent advocate of such a course and will probably put himself on record in no uncertain language when he submits to congress the result of the labors of the department of commerce statisticians who are at present engaged in gathering the divorce statistics of the past twenty years.

In this connection, as an example of what the enlightened sense of modern civilization is doing in this direction in other nations, it is interesting to note that the French parliament has at last received the marriage and divorce bill which was drawn by a commission headed by a leading French authority on the subject, Henry Coulon. After prescribing forms and legal obligations, the bill provides that no second marriage shall be contracted within ten months after a divorce, unless both parties agree to it. A departure from French custom is made in providing for a separate administration of the property of husband and wife instead of joint possession. The married woman is given the full enjoyment of civil rights, such as control of her own property and power of making contracts without the husband's consent when her possessions alone are concerned.

Among the causes for divorce are mutual consent of both parties, or, in case of incompatibility of temper or character, a petition of one of the parties, repeated every six months for two years. Other causes specified are unfaithfulness, a degrading sentence of court imposed on one of the parties, conviction of crime, desertion lasting more than two years, mental derangement, inveterate laziness or a contagious disease. In case of divorce the injured party shall be entitled to damages not exceeding one-quarter of the possessions of the other party.

As a rule, the children of divorced parties shall remain in the custody of the mother, unless the courts find it more advantageous for them to be in the care of the father or of a third party. Both parties, however, must contribute equally for the children's education.

The divorce laws of France have been subject for criticism for many years. Finally the government agreed to take up the matter, with a view to remedying the defects, and, at the same time, protecting the home. The bill which has been drafted certainly must be regarded as a liberal measure, especially as it provides that mutual consent shall be a cause for the granting of a divorce. This does not, of course, conform to American ideas as advanced by the general denominational committee which is leading the movement for the improvement of our own divorce laws. Decided progress is shown in the clause which provides for the management of the estates of marrier women and also in the one providing for damages to the injured party.

Although this bill was drawn by a government commission, it is not at all likely that it will be enacted into law without a long debate over most of its provisions. Nevertheless, the government has a majority, which will insure the adoption of the measure if the ministry insists upon forcing it through.

Teaching School Boys How to Shoot.

In New York city they are "teaching the young idea how to shoot" in a literal way. The athletic league in the public schools of the great metropolis has been at work training the boys in rifle practice. The plan has had the cordial indorsement of all except those whose desire for universal peace has blinded them to the practical benefits which will come from thorough familiarity with firearms. This benefit exists not only in connection with the great advantage which rifle practice gives to our militia, but it will result in reducing to a great extent the fatalities which come from the handling of firearms by those who know nothing of their use.

The problem of providing rifle ranges for the New York school boys was difficult at first, but it has been solved in a manner that is ingenious and eliminates the element of danger entirely. The New York Globe describes it as follows:

"This problem has been greatly simplified by the invention of a so-called 'sub-target gun machine.' This requires no ammunition, makes no report, requires but few feet of space for its operation, and is said to furnish training in shooting second only in efficiency to that on an open air range.

"The machine is said to be operated by electricity. A regular army rifle is placed in position upon it, the boy grips it as he would if actually preparing to shoot, aims at a target placed at a little distance and reduced in size so as to simulate the desired range, and pulls the trigger. This causes a pin point to puncture a minature target by the side of the gun, and this puncture corresponds exactly with the count which would have been made on the real target if the rifle had contained a loaded shell.

"By the use of this machine the basements or roofs of a number of schools have been provided with rifle ranges, where the boys regularly practice, and even shoot off noiseless and ammunitionless team matches. This seems a far more available method of teaching boys to shoot than that of Lord Roberts, whose special fad has been the fitting up of actual rifle gardens on the London roofs."

Since the dependence of the nation in time of war is upon its citizen soldiery, this idea of teaching our school boys the use of the rifle is an admirable one, from the standpoint of preparing the coming generation to be ready to respond to its country's call for volunteers in the dire emergency of war. Besides, rifle practice teaches boys self-reliance, initiative and manliness, as do all athletic sports.

STORY OF THE BIRTHPLACE OF SOUTHERN CONFEDERACY.

By HELEN HARCOURT.

On one of the beautiful shady streets of the noble capital city of South Carolina stands a hoary old church—one of the quaintest, one of the oldest in the United States. It is built in the distinct style of the olden south, with heavy molded columns supporting the lofty portico, and tall, arched windows with small panes of glass, set in the thick brick walls.

Within the venerable walls are large galleries on the rear and sides, upheld by heavy, fluted pillars, while at the front is a high platform and pulpit. The pews are quaint and shut in by gates. Back of these pews in a gallery is the big organ and space for the choir. And this revered old church, which fronts on a street, has its own old-time cemetery, where rest the early fathers and mothers of the beautiful city, the heroes and heroines of the revolution.

It seems but fitting that this quaint old building should have been selected to witness the actual birth of the confederate states. For within those ancient walls was held the first convention assembled for the avowed purpose "to dissolve the union between the state of South Carolina and the states united with her under the contract entitled the 'constitution of the United States of America.'" It was on the 17th of December, 1860, that 171 men gathered together beneath the roof of the First Baptist church of Columbia and took a step that seemed to them right and inevitable, but which plunged their own state and indeed the whole nation, into such throes of bloodshed and sorrow as neither they nor anyone else had imagined could result from the long agitated anti-slavery question.

ALWAYS RESTIVE.

South Carolina had always been more or less restive—like a mettled steed under restraint—and the idea of seceding from the great union had been seething in her midst for years, often dormant, it is true, but never sleeping or dead. More than once had she expressed dissatisfaction with her national relations. In 1832 the tariff was the cause of complaint, and in 1850 the question of the cooperation of the states of the union came from the front, and there had then been a good deal of heated and animated discussion as to the right of the individual states to annul their compact and enter on an independent existence. Later, when the slave question came to the front and became a bone of contention, the leaders of the state came together in secret council. They decided that if the November elections should place Mr. Lincoln in the white house the time would have come at last and that a decided step should be taken toward the long thought of separation from the states of the union.

The governor called an extra session of the legislature to meet on the 5th of November. The general elections took place on the 4th of the month and the object of the extra session was stated to be that the legislature might "take such action as might be deemed advisable for the safety and protection of the state." The presiding officer of the state senate reported that its members "all agreed as to their wrongs." This point having been reached, the definite news of the result of the election for president was awaited with intense anxiety. News was not as quickly and unerringly gathered then as now, and it was some days before the question was settled beyond a doubt.

As soon as it became certain that Mr. Lincoln had been elected president of the United States a special election was called in South Carolina for the choosing of delegates to meet in Columbia on the 17th of December. Said Governor Gist, "the only alternative left, in my judgment, is the secession of South Carolina from the union." The other slave states had already been sounded and their leaders agreed that as South Carolina was the chief agitator of the secession movement, and her people were apparently more united on the question than those of any other state, she should take the lead, and the others would uphold and follow her decision, whatever it might be.

An unusually light vote was polled for delegates to this ominous convention. This fact has been cited, and no doubt justly, as indicating that while South Carolina was, through her leaders, the most aggressive for secession, the mass of the people were not in favor of the movement. If a full expression of the real wishes of the masses could then have been secured the result would have been very different and the terrible war that shook our country to its very foundation would never have been. But, as is the way of the world, the few at the top of the ladder controlled those below. It was the few politicians—not the many people—who pushed on the movement, heedless of the muttered unwillingness of the more reasonable masses. But they thought they were right, these few, and so they went ahead with their plans.

Their intense enthusiasm carried all before them. They urged that the state should not wait for an overt act of hostility from the United States government, but herself strike the first blow. "If we wait," they said, "slavery and states' rights must be abandoned, and the cause of the south lost forever by the reduction of the southern states to mere provinces of a consolidated despotism." That these views were greatly mistaken is now universally acknowledged, but such was the excitement of the times, and the influence of the leaders, that they swept more moderate counsels far into the background. Their views were strongly supported by the action of the United States court at Charleston. On the 17th of November, when Lincoln's election could no longer be doubted, the judge arose in court, and in earnest, solemn tones, said: "So far as I am concerned, the temple of justice raised under the constitution of the United States is now closed."

AT ONE STROKE.

He then slowly removed his robes of office, and stepped down into the body of the court room. Those who witnessed this thrilling scene said that it was one of the most dramatic of the early incidents leading up to the civil war. Many of the spectators, even strong, rough men, burst into tears, and the tears were rolling down the cheeks of the judge himself. Every member of the district court followed his example in abandoning their posts. It was an action of tremendous import, and was recognized as such by the president and government of the United States. At one swift, unexpected stroke, the whole fabric of the federal civil machinery in South Carolina had been overthrown, and widespread confusion and disaster must ensue. Only force of arms could restore its status.

The assembling of this first secession convention was full of solemn excitement, as well it might be. Thousands of citizens crowded into Columbia, and the arriving delegates were greeted by hundreds of shouting men, wearing cockades and badges. Two colored bands marched through the streets at the head of thousands of cheering "minute men" wearing rosettes and uniforms, and shouting their readiness to fight for the right of the states to withdraw from the union. All sorts of flags and banners bearing strange devices were thrown to the breeze. But the heretofore beloved "Old Glory" was notably missing. Many there were, even amidst that excited crowd, whose eyes grew dim at the thought that the flag for which the immortal Washington fought, for which thousands of southern martyrs of the revolution had died, should now be repudiated by their sons. The most conspicuous of all the banners displayed on this momentous day was a large bunting bearing the word "Independent," in large letters. On it were pictured also the palmetto tree of the state. Around the tree were ten stars, the number of states expected to join South Carolina in her retirement from the union. The state secession flag finally adopted bore the device of the palmetto and the crescent, the stars being omitted.

The state legislature was still in session at the date fixed for the convention. It was for this reason that the latter met in the roomy old First Baptist church, instead of in the capitol building. The women of the city had decorated the platform and walls with flags and flowers. Conspicuous among the latter were garlands of the beautiful cloth of gold rose, the ancestor of the present marechal neil rose. The galleries and a portion of the main floor were set apart for visitors, and these were crowded at an early hour on the fateful 17th of December, with the wealth and beauty of the capital city. Scarce a leading family but was represented by its men and women.

The convention's first act was to elect Dr. D. F. Jamison, a delegate from Barnesville, its president, and Benjamin F. Arthur, clerk. The delegates were composed in great part of the leading men in their respective communities. Some of them had served as United States senators, governors, judges, clergymen. One had been attorney general, another speaker of the United States house of representatives. Other lesser government officials were there, besides many prominent business men and planters.

The first official act of the convention, after organization, was to pass a resolution without a single dissenting vote. This was the resolution, only a few brief words, but it meant life or death to thousands of brave men all over the country:

"It is the opinion of the convention that the state should forthwith secede from the federal union known as the United States of America, and that a committee be appointed to draft an ordinance to be adopted by the convention, in order to accomplish this purpose of secession."

Columbia was just at this time threatened with an epidemic of smallpox. Therefore, its first meeting over, the convention hastily adjourned to Charleston, where its members were greeted with the widest rejoicing. The sittings of the convention were resumed on the evening of December 18 in Institute hall. Some of the subsequent sessions, however, were held in St. Andrew's hall, with closed doors. Various committes were named, one to report on the right of the United States to own and govern property in the state after it had seceded from the union. Another committee was named to settle the question of an equable division of such property, and the share that was to come to South Carolina. Still another committee was assigned to the unpleasant duty of bearing to the government at Washington a copy of the ordinance of secession, when passed, and to transact other business usual with a foreign power. The government of South Carolina had previously informed the authorities at Washington that accredited agents would be sent to negotiate with the United States government. "But you know I cannot recognize them," said President Buchanan, sadly, "all I can do is to refer them to congress."

The sun of the 20th of December rose upon the most stupendous day in the history of South Carolina. The committee on the ordinance of secession was ready to make its report. The convention met at St. Andrew's hall at 12 o'clock. The building and adjacent streets were thronged with people whose nerves were strained to the breaking point. The throng inside the hall was silent and breathless, in sharp contrast to that outside, which was in a wild tumult. The session opened appropriately with an earnest prayer for guidance to do the right. Then a resolution was passed appointing a committee of thirteen to report "an ordinance providing for a convention to form a convention of the southern states." This step was rightly considered as of as much importance as the secession of the state itself.

Then the chairman of the committee on the ordinance of secession arose and addressed the president. A tense silence fell upon the people as the report of his committee was read. It was adopted without a single dissenting vote, and at once given over to the proper officials for engrossing, so that it might be signed by the members of the convention. A telegram was dispatched to the South Carolina delegation in congress. At 7 o'clock that evening the members of the convention, the governor and both branches of the legislature met at Institute hall to formally affix their signatures to the momentous document. This was done on the 20th day of December, 1860, a date that was then intended to take heretofore given to the 4th of July as Independence day.

The ordinance bore the great seal of the state on a large pendant wax medallion. It was solemnly signed by the one hundred and seventy-one members of the convention. This fateful ordinance of secession, as finally signed and delivered, is now preserved in the capitol at Columbia, an age-dimmed parchment, dear to those who fought and suffered for the cause it represented, which they held to be a rightful and sacred cause. Yet many of those there are today who thankfully rejoice that they still live under the protection of the glorious banner of freedom, the beloved flag of Washington, Marion, Sumter, Lee, and a host of other revolutionary heroes.

"United, we stand, divided, we fall."

For the benefit of the thousands of our readers who have never seen the text of this famous "ordinance of secession," we give it herewith:

"The State of South Carolina: At a convention of the people of the state of South Carolina, begun and holden at Columbia, on the seventeenth day of December, in the year of our Lord, one thousand, eight hundred and sixty, and thence continued by adjournment to Charleston, and there by divers adjournments to the twentieth day of December in the same year—

"An ordinance to dissolve the union between the state of South Carolina and other states united with her under the compact entitled 'The constitution of the United States of America.'

"We, the people of the state of South Carolina, in convention assembled, do declare and ordain, and it is hereby declared and ordained, that the ordinance adopted by us in convention on the twenty-third day of May, in the year of our Lord, one thousand, seven hundred and eighty-eight, whereby the constitution of the United States of America was ratified, and also all acts and parts of acts of the general assembly of this state, ratifying amendments of the said constitution, are hereby repealed, and that the union now subsisting between South Carolina and other states, under the name of 'The United States of America,' is hereby dissolved.

"Done at Charleston, the twentieth day of December, in the year of our Lord, one thousand, eight hundred and sixty.

D. F. JAMISON,
President of the Convention.

WANT GRAVEYARD REFORM.

Suggestion Made to Have Undertaking Shops at Cemeteries.

Detroit, Mich., August 22.—Frederick Greene, superintendent of a cemetery at Cleveland today in a paper read before the twentith annual convention of the Association of the America Cemetery Superintendents recommended that as a means towards stopping the exobitant charges of undertakers for burial services cemeteries install the undertaking business in connection with the burying grounds. Mr. Green declared that many undertakers charge from three to five times too much profit on burials, and said that the expense of burials would be about one-fourth of what it now is if a plan of having a cemetery undertaking establishment were carried out.

OPPOSES MONROE DOCTRINE.

Costa Rica American Club States Views and Objects.

San Jose, Costa Rica, August 22.—At a preliminary meeting of the American Club today the views and objects of the organization were formulated. It is declared to be the purpose of the club to work for the union of Latin-America and to be prepared to oppose the United States in its work of annihilation of Latin-American commercial independence."

The Monroe doctrine in President Roosevelt's point of view is declared to be a menace to all Latin-American countries.

The programme adopted declares that the association is not formed against the United States but in opposition to the alleged purpose of that country. The motto of the club with which it proposes to conduct a propaganda is "Latin America for the World and the World for Humanity."

SHORT STORIES OF LOCAL FIELD

MILLARD DEAN, A NEGRO, WAS bound over to the superior court yesterday under two charges. On Tuesday night he met with H. G. Crosby, a white man from Winder, Ga., and said: "I'll cut your throat if you don't give me your money." A scuffle then ensued in which Crosby's hand was cut. Acting Recorder Harwell bound the man over for assault and attempt to murder, and assault and attempt at robbery, under $500 bond.

Few Drink Water in Mendoza.

(From The Los Angeles Times.)

Mendoza, Argentina—The water of Mendoza is supposed to be very bad, and you are warned before going there not to touch a drop of it save for external use. This is due to the fact that the city's supply is brought in open ditches, and in flowing through some of the outlying sections absorbs a considerable quantity of drainage before it arrives in Mendoza. Here some of it is settled before being piped to the houses of the jority of the people is what they dip out of the streams that flow through the streets; hence frequent epidemic of typhoid. It is not hard to go without water when once you get used to it, but I cannot believe it is entirely healthful.

The vinos del pais—wines of the country—are very cheap, and not very bad—one of them, in fact, a wine made from the muscatelle grape, is very good. Then you are served tea at every turn and mineral waters are to be had if you can afford them, but as Apollinaris and the like foot up to about the same figure as imported champagne, they are pretty generally avoided.

An Englishman whom I met told me he had not tasted water in over a year. He certainly looked it. His face was red, his eyes bloodshot, his speech and manner extremely languid, and his every movement suggestive of a Chinaman after about his fifth pipe of opium. "No, I never touch water," he said drearily; "wine and whisky have to do instead. Yes, I always take a cab when I go over a block, and I take bromo seltzer in the morning to clear my mouth, and a siesta at noon to make my head stop buzzing, and I don't care much for cricket or tennis any more, which is a damn shame. But it's all in the day's work, and it's better than dying of typhoid, and it's the damn country's fault, not mine, anyhow." I was rather sorry for the fellow, for he was not over 30, which is too young to be taking things in that way.

MAN IS KILLED ON BIRTHDAY

Alfred Williams, of Cartersville, Loses Life in Runaway.

Cartersville, Ga., August 22.—Alfred Carter Williams, long a resident of this place, received injuries from which he died a few hours later on the streets of Cartersville Tuesday afternoon about 4 o'clock.

Mr. Williams, together with a negro boy, were driving a horse attached to a dray on the streets of the east side of Cartersville, near the Hudgins house, when from some reason the horse became frightened and attempted to run. Mr. Williams was either thrown or jumped from the wagon, striking a high board fence. As he struck the fence the front wheel of the dray struck him in the back, throwing him with terrible force into the fence. He was immediately carried home, but died in about two hours.

The funeral services were held at the house this evening at 4 o'clock. The interment was at Oak Hill cemetery.

A wife and two children survive Mr. Williams, who have the sympathy of a host of friends in their sad bereavement. Mr. Williams was 47 years old yesterday, the day of the accident.

Seeing One's Own Country First.

(From The Outing Magazine.)

"Going abroad" enjoys the prestige of many generations and its paths are deep rutted. It has lost all claim to distinction, however, and nowadays is not a thing to talk about among your friends unless you wish to force them to distraction. The tourist party has made the undertaking so commonplace that to have whizzed through Europe implies neither a long purse nor the slightest originality of intellect. I was once crossing in a steamer which contained an average muster roll of touring Americans. Those who were making their first trip abroad had fel tinclined to put on some small airs about it were speedily cowed and abashed. They found that most of their fellow voyagers had crossed from three to ten times, and that the only passenger who enjoyed the slightest distinction was a veteran who was doing his twenty-sixth "run across the pond."

Far be it from me to decry the enlightening advantages of sight seeing in the old world, where age, tradition and the novel aspect of people and things arouse the imagination and refresh the tired mind. But for one American who returns in a wholly refreshed and satisfied condition, I will find you another who will confess to numberless irritations because of petty and organized swindles and extortions waged against the yankee in a strange land, and to futile annoyance over bad hotels, poor railway service and a civility that is won and held only on a cash basis.

Largely because it has been possible for the man of moderate income to spend one or two months abroad for a considerably smaller outlay that he could tour his own country, he puts "seeing America" last instead of first, and it has been up-hill work to induce people who travel to listen to the claims of the undiscovered land toward the Golden Gate. It has come to pass, however, that the journey from New York to California is considered worth talking about as much as the trip to LLondon or Paris, and there are grounds for hope that at no far-distant time the average American with money and time for a summer or winter holiday will take pains to study his own land before he flies to the nearest steamship office to get a sailing schedule.

SUICIDE'S FAMILY SEES DEATH AGONIES APPEAR

ST. LOUIS, August 22.—Surrounded by his wife and two small children, Otto Radeck stood in front of a mirror and watched the pallor surmount his face and the agonized contractions of his muscles until he dropped to the floor dead from the effects of carbolic acid he drank last night with suicidal intent. He denied to his wife that he had taken poison and she stood by his side too frightened to move until after her husband was dead.

Radeck came from Hamburg, Germany, two years ago and has been employed as a tailor here. No motive for the suicide is known by his family.

RACIAL TROUBLE IN LOUISIANA

Sheriff Rushes to Scene to Quell Violent Disturbance.

Lake Charles, La., August 22.—No direct news has been received from Sheriff Reid and his deputies who have gone to the scene of the riot at Ten Mile, La., a meager report of which reached here last night.

It is learned from other sources, however, that a crowd or natives of that vicinity, incensed at the importation of negro laborers to be employed in grading a new section of the Santa Fe railroad, fired into a camp tent, in which were quartered three white men and eight negroes. It is said the natives used shotguns, pistols and rifles, with the result that two men are dead, six mortally wounded and three other negroes, including a negro woman, are slightly hurt.

The wounded men, the names of none of whom could be learned, were employed by the Grigsby Construction Company.

MORE THAN MONEY

A Minister Talks About Grape-Nuts.

"My first stomach trouble began back in 1895," writes a minister in Nebr., "resulting from hasty eating and eating too much. I found no relief from medicine and grew so bad that all food gave me great distress.

"It was that sore, gnawing, hungry feeling in my stomach that was so distressing and I became a sick man. Grape-Nuts was recommended as a food that could be easily digested.

"Leaving the old diet that had given me so much trouble, I began to eat Grape-Nuts with a little cream and sugar. The change effected in 24 hours was truly remarkable, and in a few weeks I was back to health again.

"My work as a minister calls me away from home a great deal, and recently I drifted back to fat meat and indigestible foods, which put me again on the sick list.

"So I went back to Grape-Nuts and cream and in four days I was put right again. The old dull headaches are gone, stomach comfortable, head clear, and it is a delight to pursue my studies and work.

"Grape-Nuts food is worth more than money to me and I hope this may induce some sufferer to follow the same course I have."

British Captain Held for Allowing Stowaway to Escape.

New Orleans, August 22.—For letting a stowaway escape, Captain N. McDonald, of the British steamer Tioga, was held in $1,000 bail by United States Commissioner Chiapella today. Three days out from Manchester Captain McDonald discovered the intruder and put him in irons, but subsequently running short-handed pressed him into service as a seaman. When the vessel reached here the stowaway was allowed ashore. He never returned.

Captain McDonald's defense was that he believed the man was no longer a stowaway when he was made a seaman.

MONEY MAKERS JAILED.

New York, August 22.—On a charge of making dies to counterfeit the standard silver dollar of Venezuela to finance a revolution in that country, secret service officers today arrested Captain George Boynton, former resident manager of the Orinoco corporation of Venezuela, and L. R. Thompson, an attorney, both of this city. Both prisoners were admitted to bail in $5,000.

Joseph Kellar and Sidney A. Kellar, of Kellar Brothers, dye makers, were also arrested in connection with the case.

The two principals in the case aver that the plan to duplicate Venezuelan money is not counterfeiting. Later, after the revolution proved successful, it was expected to legalize this issue of money, both by executive decree and by act of the Venezuelan junta. The accused men characterized this plan as a "war measure." They also allege that half of the South American risings are similarly financed.

Justice Dowdell's Candidacy.

Montgomery, Ala., August 21—(Special.) Hon. J. Thos. Heflin, the popular congressman from the Fifth congressional district of Alabama, was in the city yesterday, and when asked about the political situation, said:

"I am chairman of Judge J. R. Dowdell's campaign committee in his race for associate justice, and am very much gratified with the outlook. The fact that he has no opposition for associate justice of the supreme court is a strong testimonial of his popularity with the democratic party, and of his preeminent fitness for the place he now so ably fills. There is no doubt about his renomination. There was some confusion awhile, growing out of the fact that none of the candidates for associate justice were opposing him. This unexplained was calculated to mislead a great many people. But now, democrats thoroughly understand that while none of the candidates are fighting Judge Dowdell, it is necessary to vote for him in the primary.

"There are two associate justices to be nominated—Judge Dowdell, candidate to succeed himself, and the other place is now filled by Judge Tyson, who is a candidate for chief justice.

"It will be remembered that Judge Dowdell was nominated in the primary two years ago for a term of six years, but under a new law, the terms were fixed at two, four and six years, and the associate justices had to draw for the places, and Judge Dowdell drew a short term. His nomination now simply carries out the will of the party expressed in the primary two years ago. He should receive the vote of every democrat in Alabama, for he is a conscientious, fearless and able justice, and there is no better man in the state." ***

CHARTIER CARRIES THE STATE BY OVERWHELMING MAJORITY

As a Candidate for the Favor and Patronage of the People and the Business Public, the New and Wonderful System of Shorthand, Taught at Bagwell's Business College, is an Easy Winner Over All Competitors.

Young men and women from every section of the state and the south are headed for Bagwell's Business College and School of Shorthand to avail themselves of the splendid opportunities, never before offered to young people of this section, to prepare for remunerative positions in a few weeks or months and at a comparatively trifling cost.

A Remarkable Demonstration.

of the efficiency of the Chartier System of Shorthand as taught by Bagwell's Business College, 198 Peachtree street, Atlanta, is furnished by the success of young James A. Beattie, now in the employ, as stenographer, of the George Muse Clothing Company, of this city, one of the leading mercantile establishments of the south.

Young Mr. Beattie, just 14 years of age, entered the Bagwell Business College June 4. After three weeks' study, he could write over sixty words per minute of unfamiliar matter. After six weeks he had attained a speed of over one hundred words per minute, besides having acquired during this period considerable speed on the typewriter.

The president of Bagwell's Business College has just received the following letter from Mr. Beattie:

August 21, 1906.

"Professor J. O. Bagwell, Atlanta, Ga.—Dear Professor Bagwell: It is with much pleasure that I give my hearty indorsement to both your college and the Chartier System of Shorthand. After only six weeks' actual attendance in your school, and without previous knowledge of any system of shorthand, I was able to accept a position as stenographer with the George Muse Clothing Company, which you kindly secured for me. As far as I know, I am giving satisfaction. Thanking you for your interest in my behalf, I am, sincerely yours,

"JAMES BEATTIE."

Bagwell's Business College has on file a statement from his employers to the effect that Mr. Beattie is giving perfect satisfaction, and that his work is truly remarkable.

Mr. Beattie is not the only one that has made such a record.

A number of pupils who entered Bagwell's Business College on June 4 and studied only six to eight weeks are now holding positions paying from $40 to $65 per month and giving perfect satisfaction. Nothing like this has ever before been accomplished in the city of Atlanta. The same results could not be obtained with any other recognized system of shorthand in less than five to eight months.

Does It Stand to Reason that over one hundred of the biggest, best, oldest and most conservative business colleges of America, including the great Eastman college at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., would adopt this system, and after thoroughly testing it, would make the same claims that we make for it, if these claims were not true?

Mr. Gaines, president of Eastman college, perhaps the largest business college in the United States, says:

"It is so SIMPLE that a child can learn it; so COMPREHENSIVE that every word in the English language can be written; and its SPEED POWER is as great as that of any other system."

E. R. Seidlitz, president of Rubicon Shorthand college, at St. Louis, Mo., the leading shorthand school of the west, says:

"During September, 1905, we placed twenty-five Chartier shorthand students in positions paying from $50 to $75 per month. The greatest number of days required to master the system was sixty-five and the best record was thirty-two days. The young lady who mastered it in thirty-two days was immediately placed in a $55 position, in one of the leading dry goods houses of St. Louis, and she still holds the position."

What's the Use

to spend from six to ten months in studying any of the old Pitmanic systems if you can learn Chartier Shorthand IN HALF THE TIME AT HALF THE EXPENSE and at the same time make a better stenographer? Do you know of any sensible reason why you should do it? According to past records ninety out of one hundred who take up the old systems of shorthand will have to remain in college six to twelve months or return home to suffer the chagrin of failure and disappointment.

Why Take Any Risk?

There are no failures in Chartier Shorthand for those of average intelligence who are willing to work. We GUARANTEE results, because we know that Chartier Shorthand is all that we claim for it. We can save you from three to six months' time and from $200 to $300.

Thousands of boys and girls from every section of the south will enter business colleges during the months of September and October. Any one who intends to take a business course will do himself a great injustice not to investigate this wonderful system of shorthand.

JAMES BEATTIE,
Stenographer for George Muse Clothing Co., Secured Position After Six Weeks' Study of Chartier Shorthand.

Repenting of Their Mistakes.

Many students of other business colleges in the city have called at Bagwell's Business College to investigate Chartier Shorthand in behalf of friends who are thinking of taking a course. After seeing its wonderful simplicity and being convinced that both its speed and reading power are greater than that of any of the old systems and seeing students who had been studying only four to six weeks write ordinary unfamiliar matter at the rate of fifty to one hundred words per minute and read their notes back without the slightest hesitation, have expressed themselves as being very sorry that they did not investigate before paying their money for a course elsewhere.

Do not wait until it is too late. Do not be governed entirely by statements of competitors. They do not have the right to teach it and cannot afford to recognize its merits.

An Acceptable Challenge.

Bagwell's Business College has proposed a number of times and still proposes to contest a six weeks' student of the Chartier system against three-months pupils of the Graham. The matter dictated to consist of ordinary unfamiliar matter which none of the contestants have ever seen before. It has offered its competitors $100 in cash to accept the proposition. Why do they not accept? Evidently because they are afraid of the result.

Goodyear-Marshall Bookkeeping.

taught at Bagwell's Business College, is as far superior to most other systems as Chartier Shorthand is to the old system of shorthand. The location of the college is more attractive than that of any other college in the city. All students are given individual attention. The object is to get results.

Dormitory for Boys.

furnishes a wholesome discipline and board at actual cost. Special accommodations provided for young ladies.

POSITIONS ARE SECURED FOR ALL GRADUATES IMMEDIATELY. No school in the south has better facilities for securing positions.

OFFICE COURT HOUSE.
Augusta, Ga., March 27, 1905.

To the Public:

Each member of our firm has devoted a portion of several days in making a thorough and critical examination of Chartier Shorthand. In our opinion, Chartier Shorthand is one of the most marvelous educational discoveries of modern times, for the reason: First, we find the outlines to be much briefer than those of any other system of which we have any knowledge; second, these same brief outlines represent from 200 to 300 per cent more reading power; third, from the few rules in the system, it should be learned in one-fourth the time.

We take pleasure in recommending Chartier Shorthand to the careful consideration of all prospective students. Very respectfully,

(Signed) BARROW & TARVER,
Expert Stenographers.

SOCIETY

Bishop-Lowe.

THE marriage of Mrs. Mary C. Bishop and Mr. E. E. Lowe took place last evening at the Cumberland Presbyterian church, the ceremony being witnessed by a large assemblage of friends.

Messrs. Thomas Harris and John D. Wood acted as ushers, and Misses Neone Spellman and Victoria Williams were the lovely little flower girls, who preceded the bride and groom as they entered the church. Master Mylie Bishop Burwell was the ring bearer.

The bride's gown was an elegant creation in Brussells net over champaigne-tinted chiffon, and applied on lace. Her hat of lace was trimmed in white plumes, and she carried a bouquet of pink roses. The flower girls wore white frocks and carried pink roses.

The bride is a bright and charming woman, the daughter of the late J. K. Clongan, of Cleveland, Tenn., and the groom is one of Atlanta's best known and most successful business men.

Mr. Lowe and his bride left immediately after the ceremony for a trip north.

Domino Party.

MISS MAY TAYLOR will entertain at dominoes Tuesday morning.

The Fall Tailor Gown.

THE smart woman who believes in the "eternal fitness of things" as far as her clothes are concerned, always looks ahead in their purchase.

At this season of the year, for instance, a woman realizes that the first thing she needs, in the early fall, is a street suit, or, now as they are more commonly called, the coat suit. Her summer gowns of silk, voile or lisse may still be worn afternoon or evening, but her street raiment in the early fall days must be something more than the white waist and skirt or the dainty muslin gown.

Just what will be the mode of this early fall suit has already been decided by the designers and manufacturers, and Atlanta modistes in their "advance notes" and their importations state that the coat suit will be a jaunty creation; the coat a three-quarter length, or just below the hips, while the skirt will still be walking length, tight about the hips and rather full below the knee.

Black broadcloth of light quality will be a favored fabric for the full suits, also the same fabric in the dark shades of blue, brown and green.

For wraps the large loose coat ordinarily styled the "automobile" coat will prevail, the popularity of the automobile as a mode of equipage, deciding the style and lines of the "top coat." They will be made of light cloth materials in the empire fashion, many of them, and their finish will be in velvet collars or cuffs in a contrasting color to the material.

Tan color will assert itself as the popular in the auto coats.

THE DISCREDITED EYE-WITNESS

Novel Test of Reliability of People Who Are on the Spot.

From The Chicago Tribune.)

A Swiss professor has been making some experiments to test the reliability of the reports of an event given eye witnesses. In one instance he brought before his class of students a man whose body was covered with a white shroud and whose face was masked. The man stood before the class for ten seconds and then retired. After a few days the professor asked the members of the class to pick out the mask worn by the stranger from among several which lay upon the table. Only four out of two dozen students picked the right one, although it was different in size and color from the others. The rest either failed in the test or frankly confessed their inability to decide. From this and similar observations the professor reached the conclusion that there is a great deterioration in the powers of observation, and that this deterioration is the result of the high pressure of modern life.

While many would doubt the value of such tests for proving the thing desired by the teacher, the fact is accepted generally that the testimony of an eye witness is not specially valuable, despite the presumption that one who was present when anything strange or unusually happened ought to have seen what actually did occur. But eye witnesses often disagree, so widely in their reports that such testimony is easily discredited in court. What the eye sees is largely a matter of training, and the eye memory is even more important in the case than the sight. The exceptional man is the "Sherlock Holmes," not the ordinary one. A farmer observes many things in the country which the city man fails to note, while in the city the man falls to note many things in the farmer's own territory which the eye of the latter never revealed to him. "The cowslip by the river's brim" affords a suggestion far beyond the fields of beauty or botany.

The Swiss professor says that, in his opinion, not one person in nine can give a correct description of a man looked at for ten seconds, and this, too, even when such inspection is for the express purpose of furnishing material for a report. That would not be astonishing. Many people have defective eyesight. beThey fail to recognize features because they never see them clearly. Or, if eyesight be unimpaired, eye memory may be lacking, so that the impressions distinct at the time of observation are forgotten soon and cannot be recalled on demand. The chances are, therefore, that it is not the high pressure of modern life which makes the powers of observation less effective, although people live fast, move fast, read fast and skim things in every field of observation. Rather, the present conditions are just like those always operative. It is more likely the lack of definite training of the eye, the lack of cultivation of eye memory, or the extremely common faults of eyesight, recognized by the individual or not, which discredit the reports which the eye witnesses bring of an event.

Reversible Figures.

(From Harper's Weekly.)

There is a western senator of rather an irascible temper, who, on the days when everything goes wrong, enjoys scolding the clerks employed by his committee.

On one occasion during the last session of the senate, the western solon had desired one of the clerks to prepare a tabulated statement of certainn trade statistics of the United States. When the statement was laid before the testy senator he glanced at it with an air that boded trouble. Suddenly he exclaimed:

"Look here, Robinson, this won't do. Why didn't you prepare this statement on the typewriter. These figures are disgraceful. Any office boy could do better. See that five? It looks for all the world like a three! Nobody would take it for anything else! Just look at it!"

"I beg pardon, senator," replied the humble clerk; "the fact is, it is a three."

"A three!" roared the senator. "You idiot! It looks like a five!"

THEORETIC WAR COSTS $700,000

Large Deficit in Department Budget.

Congress May Be Asked to Make Appropriation to Cover Shortage—Money to Be Paid After Maneuvers Are Closed.

Washington, August 22.—After a month of hard work, Assistant Secretary Oliver, of the war department, concluded that he had finally made a satisfactory adjustment of the many difficulties in apportioning the appropriation of $700,000 for pay of the militia for the maneuvers in the camps throughout the country, but it appears that all is not satisfactory. These funds had to be apportioned to the quartermaster's department, the subsistence department and the pay department of the army for the purpose of quartering, feeding and paying the state soldiers. Reports were obtained from different state governors as to the number of troops that would be sent to the encampment, the distance they would travel, etc., and the apportionment was made on the basis of the reports received. However, in some cases, more state troops than had been given in the schedule had been sent, and more expense was thus attached.

Deficit in Funds.

This caused a deficit in the allotment of funds, especially in the matter of pay for the state troops. The pay department of the army decided to pay the troops as long as the funds lasted, those who came last going unpaid. It has been suggested that another adjustment may be made after the camps have finished their work, which is that some camps may not use all the money allotted to them, and the funds can be used to make up the deficit elsewhere. No attempt to make an adjustment at this time will be made, as nothing definite is known as to the number of state troops which will be at the different camps. It is possible that congress will be asked to make an appropriation to cover the deficit and the state troops paid next winter.

How to Swim—The Side Stroke.

(L. de B. Handley in Outing.)

Whether a man be a swimmer or not, in taking up a new stroke he should begin with the leg movement only. In the side stroke it is called the scissors kick. To acquire it find a place with water at least 3 feet in depth, where you can use either a stationary or a floating support. Take hold of this support and let your body rest on the water, on its side, with legs straight and well together and feet as if standing on tiptoe. Choose the side that feels most comfortable. Now proceed to open the legs very slowly, not frog fashion, but front and back, as in walking. The upper should be brought forward almost straight, the under, back, bent to a kneeling position. When they are about 2 feet apart snap sharply together.

The position of the body is unchanged. Lie on your side, with body and legs in a straight line; both arms perpendicularly over your head and the palms turned slightly away from the face. Bring upper arm down smartly, keeping it rigid at elbow and wrist, palm of hand open, fingers well together. Carry it through the water just below the surface, describing a semi-circle to end at the thigh, then bend arm at the elbow and bring it forward well above water, until it is straight before you in the original position. The under arm should be started when the upper one is just about through with its stroke, and should be brought down with force, almost parallel to it, so that at the finish it brushes the lower thigh; then it is bent at the elbow like the other and brought forward just below the surface. The upper arm should rest on the water, at full reach, while the under one recovers until it is at the height of the head.

The action of the arms, in the side stroke, entails a rolling motion of the body which buries the face at every stroke. This necessitates an artificial way of breathing which has to be learned before the stroke can be swum properly. It is advisable to make a special study of it. Air should be inhaled through the mouth as the upper arm is being brought down, and should be exhaled through the nostrils, under water, while the under arm goes forward. Some find this impossible, even after a long practice, and breathe in and out through the mouth during the short period that the face is above water, but if you can acquire the other way it is far the best.

The legs should be opened very slowly just as the under arm starts its recovery; they should be snapped together when the upper arm is in the middle of its stroke. If properly timed the side stroke gives a clean, even progress, without a break or a check.

Wicked City Being Wiped Out by Flames.

Another Shock Felt in Valparaiso. Populace Camping Out—The City Is Said to Be Practically Annihilated—Panic Still Prevails.

"About one-half of the city of Valparaiso is destroyed and the balance damaged. Our officers are apparently quite safe. More than 2,000 killed or injured, populace camping out. Our steamers safe."

A cable message received from Valparaiso by the way of Lima, Peru, by W. R. Grace & Co., of this city, read as follows:

"The city (Valparaiso) is almost annihilated. Fires are still ravaging."

The message was dated at Lima today, having been received there from the firm's representatives in Valparaiso.

The Story of "Lucky" Baldwin.

(From The Outing Magazine.)

In 1853, or more than half a century ago, a little party of gold-seekers, with a meager outfit of horses and wagons, started for California from the village of Racine, Wis. In command of this adventurous expedition was a young man who took with him his wife and infant daughter. His name was E. J. Baldwin, and he made a wise choice in shaking from his restless feet the dust of a tamer civilization. He needed a larger theater of action for his pent-up and surging activities. While trailing through the mountains of Utah the pioneers were attacked by Indians, who were beaten off during a six-hour fight, in which young Baldwin killed their chief. After six months of hardship the party reached Hangtown (later called Placerville) in California.

Here Baldwin tarried and began placer mining. He appears to have been no more than an ordinary red-shirted argonaut, meeting the ups and downs of mining luck, until the discovery of the Comstock Lode at Virginia City. Thither he drifted, and discovered that his natural bent was gambling with the mines that other men had opened. Amid a whirlwind of speculation he fought his way with such success that he loomed from the smoke in a few months as "Lucky" Baldwin, the man who had cleaned up seven and a half million dollars in the gigantic deals in the stock of the Ophir mines.

San Francisco was the Mecca of those lucky sons of fortune who were rearing a great city by the Golden Gate. As a stock and mining speculator "Lucky" Baldwin shone resplendent, but he was also a loyal son of San Francisco. He built hotels and theaters and business blocks, even while he was amazing that far from conservative community by madly freakish extravagances.

In a very lucid interval he bought all the Spanish grants he could find near Los Angeles, and there spent a million in making this ranch of his not only a splendidly productive property, but also one of the most beautiful estates ever laid out in this or any other country. It was his hobby, his pet, and he planted miles of avenues with noble shade trees, and made wonderful tropical gardens, so that today his home is surrounded by a paradise of vernal beauty.

White Prairie Dogs.

(Pierre Correspondence of St. Paul Dispatch.)

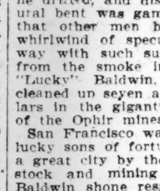

A resident on Red river, near Philip, has located a warren of snow-white prairie dogs in a town near his ranch. He has made a number of efforts to capture them, but as they are located about the middle of a large town, it is impossible to get near them without an alarm being sounded by the other denizens of the town. They are a rarity and would be a great attraction as curiosities.

Modern Robin Hoods.

(From The London County Gentleman.)

In England nothing has taken the place of the native genius for archery. Perhaps the reason is that the old skill of wrist and eye is turned on to games, and we have lost not a quality, but a proper exercise for it. Soon, it may be hoped, Robin Hoods and Little Johns will be found making bulls with the Morris tube, instead of splitting wands with the arrow over half the villages of England.

MEMPHIS LOSES HARD CONTEST

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS.

New Orleans 2, Montgomery 2.

Memphis, Tenn., August 22.—(Special.)—The Atlanta team celebrated its last appearance here this year by administering a clean coat of kalsomine to the Memphii with the double-headed wonder, Liebhart, pitching. Score, 3 to 0.

The team play of the visitors was steady and fast and intermixed with brilliant bits of fielding that produced applause from an ordinary sized crowd, many being prevented from attending by threatening weather. Twenty-five assists are credited to the Atlanta infielders, which in itself will afford considerable enlightenment to home fans on the lightning manner in which every grounder was gobbled up from the Memphians' bats. But one fly ball was caught in the outfield, and the fact that almost as many assists are credited to the total efforts of the Georgia infielders as are credited in the put-out column caused many an argument after the game and even the oldest of scorers thereabouts were unable to recall a contest where such an array of figures have been published.

Whitey Morse, Sid Smith and Otto Jordan did most of the damage in the game today, which may have robbed the Memphii of any look-in they had for the pennant. Jordan was all over the infield and accepted ten chances completing the entire series without an error for a total of thirty-six opportunities. Smith's throwing was perfect. He nailed six runners, four while stealing and two while attempting to dump bunts in front of his position.

Morse, however, was the star. The crack shortstop scooped up a grounder in the second inning with the bases full, and tossing to Smith, retired the fleet Nichols. Smith then wheeled and threw Varey out before he could get to first. Owens then hit to Hoffman and was out, enabling the visitors to accomplish the difficult feat of retiring the side without a run although the bases had been full with no one out.

Harley pitched against Liebhart and with brilliant support was enabled to shout off all local efforts to score. Only in the second round did Harley permit more than a single hit an inning.

With Smith on third and Jordan on first in the fourth, the double steal was effectively executed, both runners advancing there by netting the first run of the day. Smith tripled in the eighth, sending Crozier home and scoring himself with the last run of the game, when Babb booted a grounder from Hoffman. Atlanta left for Little Rock. Score:

New Orleans 2, Montgomery 2.

New Orleans, August 22.—Today's game was marked by scenes. The score stood 2 to 2 from the second to the first half of the sixteenth inning, when Montgomery scored three runs. Then followed several kicks by local players, as a result of which Atz was put out of the game. Umpire Shuster then called the game on account of darkness, and the score went back to the end of the fifteenth inning, when it was 2 to 2. When the game was called Manager Mullaney made a break for the umpire, but was caught and held by the Montgomery players.

As a result of today's tie Montgomery and New Orleans play agai ntomorrow, which is an off day for both teams. Score:

S.S.S. CURES BLOOD POISON

The first outward sign of Contagious Blood Poison is a small sore or blister As the poisonous virus becomes more firmly entrenched in the blood a red eruption appears on the body, the mouth and throat ulcerate, the hair begins to come out, glands in the neck and groin swell, copper colored spots appear on the breast, back, etc., and the unfortunate victim finds himself diseased from head to foot. Mercury and potash do not cure Contagious Blood Poison; they shut the disease up in the system and remove the outward symptoms for awhile, but when the treatment is left off the trouble returns. Then the system being weakened from the action of these strong minerals the disease makes more rapid headway than before. S. S. S. is the antidote for Contagious Blood Poison. It cures permanently and certainly by going down into the blood and removing every vestige of the virus. It is free from all minerals, and while purifying the blood it builds up the entire system by its fine tonic effects. S. S. S. destroys every particle of the poison and removes all danger of transmitting it to others. S. S. S. cures Contagious Blood Poison because it is a perfect blood purifier. Book with instructions for self treatment and any medical advice free.

FUTURITY GOES TO ED CUSTER

Six Bookmakers Arrested at Reidsville Track.

Readville, Mass., August 22.—The unlooked fory victory of Ed Custer in the American Horse Breeders' futurity stake for three-year-olds, and the arrest of six men charged with bookmaking, were the features of the second day's grand circuit meet at Readville track today. The Norfolk stake for 2:08 pacers was won by Argol Boy, who took all three heats. El Milagro took three heats in the 2:12 trotting race without difficulty.

The futurity stake was valued at $7,000 and is the first of the large futurities of the year. Gay Bingen was the choice, but came on the track slightly lame. At the start of the first heat he remained in second position to the back stretch, when he moved up and at the turn was half a length in the lead. Cochato came strong, however, and carried the leader to a break in the stretch and won by a length. Ed Custer was fourth. In the second heat Ed Custer kept close to Cochato and at the far turn the latter broke and the Wisconsin horse won easily.

Ed Custer, in the third heat, led from wire to wire. The time of the first heat was within a quarter of a second of the world's record (2:11¼), for three-year-old stallions, held by Cresceus.

Ardelle, the Geer's entry, was the favorite for the Norfolk, but Cox kept Argol boy close to Ardelle in the first heat, until the half was reached, when he went into the lead and finished very fast in 2:03½, beating the record for the stake of 2:04¾, made by Morning Star.

The next two heats were easy for the New Hampshire horse.

It was not until the final heat of the 2:12 trot that El Milagro was challenged by Jenny Scott, but the mare did not have the necessary speed to catch the gelding.

Secretary Jewett, of the New England Breeders' Association, said today that there will be pool selling on the races tomorrow, notwithstanding the raid today.

ROSE'S CORN-ER.

It's All Over Now—Including the Shouting.

Election Day is over,
Ended, the long campaign;
And in spite of all the talking,
Things seem about the same.

This isn't the only campaign that ever happened. There have been several others. And now that it is all over, including the shouting, it is time to give attention to some of the serious things in life.

It is more than possible that you are feeling the least bit badly today. Staying up later than usual last night; shouting yourself hoarse over the returns and all that sort of thing, has a tendency to disturb the human system and jar it out of place in spots.

Beware of Cheap Poisonous Whiskeys.

Be careful in your selection of a cure. While a good, pure, honestly made whiskey will soothe those strained vocal chords and will stimulate in a healthy and natural manner your entire system, an impure and adulterated whiskey will only poison the tired, overwrought and sensitive organs which you want to aid not injure.

While we have many whiskeys which are suitable, as a rye whiskey, we believe "Purity" has special advantages as a medicinal stimulant. The State Chemist, Dr. John M. McCandless, and many experts and physicians have examined bottles taken from our stock. They have pronounced it absolutely pure and without suspicion of adulteration. Besides, Uncle Sam's revenue officials know pure whiskey when made. That's why we can afford to always say:

"Ask the Revenue Officer."

Full quart bottle "Purity" $1.00
Four full quart bottles "Purity" 3.75
One gallon (jug) "Purity" 3.50

COTTON MARKET WAS LESS ACTIVE

Prices Ruled Irregular With the Close Barely Study.

Crop News From Texas Were Less Favorable, Which Caused Slight Advance—On the Rally Prices Eased Off Under Bear Pressure.

New York, August 22.—The cotton market was considerably less active during the last two or three days and prices ruled irregular with the close barely steady at unchanged prices to a decline of 4 points. Sales were tsimated at 250,000 bales. The market opened steady at an advance of 1 to 4 points and shortl yafter the call increased the gain to a matter of 5 to 7 points on higher cables than expected, rather less favorable crop news from Texas, covering of shorts and Wall street bull support. October sold at 9.15 on the bulge, December at 9.24, and January at 9.33, which represented a recovery from the low point of last Monday of about 27 to 29 points, and around these figures offerings increased as a result of selling by recent buyers for a turn, who thought the reaction sufficient for the time being, and fresh sales for short account by bears who had covered earlier in the week and had been waiting for a rolly before reselling.

The market eased off under this pressure, which was aided by scattering sales by wire and commission houses with southern connections, and before midday showed a net loss of about 3 to 5 points. This was followed by a less active business and fluctuations during the late session were comparatively narrow and irregular. The close was within a couple of points of the lowest. Southern spot markets were generally unchanged. Weather reports were not considered unfavorable, but private reports clai mtoo much rain in Texas.

Receipts at the ports today 8,000 bales, against 4,973 last week and 7,834 last year. For the week 40,000 bales, against 31,153 last week and 53,000 last year.

Today's receipts at New Orleans 771 bales, against 701 last year, and at Houston 3,945 bales, against 2,769 bales last year.

New Orleans Cotton Market.

New Orleans, August 22.—Spot cotton closed steady, unchanged from yesterday. Total sales were 85 bales, with 500 to arrive. Futures opened steady, unchanged to 5 points up and August bids 13 points higher. A bullish Liverpool and a belief that the big bears had all covered was the only reason given for a higher opening. The market closed steady, unchanged to 3 points under Tuesday's figures.

The Dry Goods Market.

New York, August 22.—A large jobbing trade was done today in dry goods. In the primary market there was a lull for the moment in domestics. Knit goods sold well for fall and spring delivery of 1907.

Liverpool Cotton Market.

Liverpool, August 22, 12:30 p. m.—Cotton, spots steady, increased demand at 3 points advance; middling uplands 5.44, sales 7,000 bales; speculation and export 500; receipts 100, all American.

Futures opened steady.

Hubbard Bros. & Co.

New York, August 22.—COTTON—Liverpool advanced, but does not seem disposed to follow the reaction in this market further than to keep in touch with it, unless there is a decided change in crop advices. Here the tendency is to either assist or to look on at the operations for an upward reaction. There is no opposition to the reaction, as the trade feel it should come after so long continued a decline, and that the market should have two sides to it. The spinners will make excellent profits on the present prices for good cotton. Yet nothing has appeared to alter the remarkable condition of the crop, which today's reports and weather map assert and confirm. While the shorts may take profits, we do not look for any bull speculation until we hear of a decided deterioration of the crop. So far whenever rain has been needed it has come, followed by dry weather just at the right time, and the reverse when needed. We do not remember so excellent a crop prospect at this date in August. We think that spinners should be fair buyers at this basis to secure a portion of their requirements. Europe will be governed by the offerings from the south, and crop conditions.

Gibert & Clay.

New Orleans, August 22.—COTTON.—Early Liverpool cables were distinctly bullish on news of less favorable character concerning the crop which sentiment in options earlier fully reflected but later lost when the large short interest became more thoroughly liquidated, final prices being 3 points over yesterday's close. Spot sales amounted to 7,000 bales quotations 3 points higher. In the past few days the market has developed into a comparatively narrow affair, sorely in need of the broadening influence of a more general outside interest. Under existing circumstances the more professional element are not inclined to aid the market either one way or the other, the belief prevailing that a sharp advance would not be in keeping with the favorableness of crop news, while on the other hand the recent decline has been so thorough that considerable difficulty would, in all probability be experienced should an attempt be made to force values lower. Under the surface, however, there lies important factors directly and indirectly bearing upon the cotton market and which at their proper time will undoubtedly exert their proportion of influence. First, the free movement of early cotton which seems to portend sufficient supplies and the early undoing of hedges against spot commitments; secondly, the recent questionable inflation of values in the stock market may at the time of its realization increase bearish sentiment and in opposition the fear that an overburdensome short interest may result in causing a further reaction from low levels recent observed.

New York, August 22.—STOCKS.—With somewhat diminished trading the market was again under liquidation today and while some softness was displayed in spots the general tone was good. Perhaps the action of the Harriman shares was more significant as indicating favorable sentiment on the market than other issues in view of the tremendous advance recently secured in those shares and the fact that enormous realizing has taken place. The strength of Pennsylvania was in some way connected with the steadiness of Union Pacific and the market generally was well taken care of up to the second hour of the afternoon. Call money was marked up to 6 per cent and sterling exchange made a further decline which points to gold imports though no engagements have been announced and this combination with a further loss of the banks since Friday through subtreasury operations may have caused the unsteadiness the market displayed at times. It is quite possible that interest rates will continue somewhat near present quotations and that stock marked loans will be charged with 6 per cent for both call and time money into the future. Such rates, however, will command funds from Europe and undoubtedly imports of gold will relieve the situation in the near future and of course stimulate activity in the market. We look to see the security list sustained and believe the general tendency of the market will be towards a higher level.

Ware & Leland.

New York, August 22.—COTTON—The irregular character of the cotton market is not difficult to explain in view of the extensive decline that has recently taken place, the effort of a large short interest to cover cotton without causing much of an advance in prices and the exceptionally favorable tenor of by far the greater percentage of crop accounts at hand from the south. Operations are on a more restricted scale, owing to the uncertainty and the feeling that the market may be in for a reaction of 30 or 40 points on an oversold technical condition. Beyond this there seems to be no radical change in the position and sentiment continues bearish as a result of the progress of the cotton crop. It is still early in the season and as cotton has not sold at 9 cents in some time, and the world's dry goods trade is in a profitable condition the buying by spinners and the trade generally at present prices is not surprising. In fact it is the part of wisdom for spinners needing a large quantity of cotton the coming season to lay in a portion of the stock at present prices. This support has operated in favor of steadiness and many larger traders are now willing to both buy and sell at the current level. The market seems to be in a reactionary mood, but on any advance the south is likely to begin selling again and of course inducements for the trade to buy now noticeable would be absent on a rise. It looks as though we would have a good trading market for some time to come.

Chicago, August 22.—WHEAT—There was a firm start with prices working upon advances of the northwest, and while shorts covered moderately and a number who were selling September a short while ago, were going long of December, it was rather discouraging to the bull for Armour to put out a nice line of December. Northwest crop advices were more optomistic and export demand was less in evidence, thereby contributing to decided weakness that was continued up to the close. It looks very much as if the market would work a little lower, but on fair-sized dips purchases will be in order again.

CORN—A little strength developed early in sympathy with wheat and the very light receipts with some talk of damage in Kansas and Nebraska by hot weather. Acceptances were light, 150,000 bushels was reported sold to the seaboard, but there was no stap to the market, and local operators sold sufficiently to ease prices off. As a general thing the new crop outlook is good, but we doubt very much if prices can be hammered down under prevailing conditions.

OATS—There was fair buying early by the pit crowd, but those who bought May early were selling in addition by sales of Patton. Closing was easy, but should prices decline to lower levels we would favor purchases.

PROVISIONS—Hogs in good supply and shipment lard over last year. Meats slightly under. Exporters were in the market as buyers of cash lard, but as regards the futures trade was very light and without feature; 17,000 hogs tomorrow.

New York, August 22.—STOCKS—Irregularity prevailed in the stock market from the opening today, but after the London selling at the start there seemed to be but little liquidation and afterwards the selling pressure was moderate. When the shorts began to bid for stocks they found an exceedingly limited supply of the same, and we deduct from this that the largest interests have ceased their secondary distribution of a divisional character, and will await higher levels before pursuing the same tactics again. The market fundamentals are such as to justify improvement, particularly along specialty lines and in the low-priced issues, where the public buying is noticeable and while the money market will prevent a runaway stock list, it is not really dangerous if considerately handled, and we believe this action will be taken by the banking element in control of manipulation, for it can import gold whenever necessary. Hardening occurred during the afternoon and the leadership was divided between Union Pacific and Steel common, indicating harmony between Morgan and Harriman interests where friction existed. We continue conservatively bullish on the standard list.

WHEAT DEMAND LIVELY AT START

Firm Cables and Rains in the Northwest Largely Responsible

Prices Began to Weaken About the Middle of the Session on Increased Receipts of New Wheat at Minneapolis—Liquidation Was Quite Heavy.

Chicago, August 22.—Increased receipts of new wheat at Minneapolis induced liberal liquidation today in the local wheat market and caused a weak tone at the close, September being off ⅛c. Corn was down ⅛c. Oats were unchanged. Provisions were 2½ to 5c lower.

The wheat market opened firm on a lively demand by shorts. Firm cables and continued wet weather in the northwest were largely responsible for the demand. Unfavorable reports regarding the spring-sown crop both in this country and in Canada also encouraged buying. The demand for spring wheat in Canada also encouraged buying. The demand for spring wheat, it was claimed, was mostly in North Dakota and Manitoba. The initial firmness was well maintained until about the middle of the session when the market began to weaken under free offerings from local holders. As trading advanced offerings increased in volume, the selling was started by a report from Minneapolis to the effect that ten cars of new wheat had arrived there tiday. Seven of these cars, it was said, were graded No. 1 northern, 2 cars graded No. 1 hard and the remaining one was the Durum variety. The excellent quality of these arrivals was their chief factor in bringing out the liberal offerings on the local market as much as the wheat came from territory where it was claimed the yield was very unsatisfactory. Liquidation was in evidence throughout the remainder of the day and the tone of the market became quite heavy. The close was weak, September opened ⅛c higher and 71⅞c, sold up to 71⅞@72c and then declined to 70¾c. Clearances of wheat and flour were equal to 661,800 bushels. Primary receipts were 625,000 bushels, compared with 621,000 bushels the corresponding day last year. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 171 cars, against 404 cars last week and 198 cars a year ago.

Firm cables, small local receipts and practically no acceptances had a strengthening effect on the corn market early in the day. There was a good demand by commission houses the greater part of the day. The break in wheat caused considerable profit taking in corn late in the session, which resulted in an easier undertone. The close was easy. September opened 1-8c higher at 48½c, sold up to 48⅝c and then declined to 48c. The close was at 48¼c. Local receipts 76 cars, 35 of contract grade.

Oats were quiet, but inclined to dullness. Local receipts were small, 152 cars, and acceptances were reported as being very light. Weather in the northwest was wet, which, it was claimed, would damage the grain in shocks. These factors, combined with strength of wheat and corn, was the influences that caused the moderate advance in the early session. Practically all of the gain was lost on profit taking, the market closing steady. September opened ¼c higher at 30c, sold off to 29⅝c and closed at 29¾c.

Provisions were dull and easy. Liberal receipts of live hogs at all western centers were the principal depressing influences. At the close September pork was off 5c at $17. Lard was down 2½c at $8.60. Ribs were 5c lower at $8.95.

Estimated receipts for tomorrow: Wheat, 119 cars; corn, 114 cars; oats, 204 cars; hogs, 17,000 head.

J. B. MARBURY, Section Director.

Edmund & Charles Randolph.

Atlanta, Ga., August 22.—COTTON—The market showed strength at the opening, Liverpool being reported a buyer on this side, and there was some further support from Wall street bulls, also covering by shorts. Some reports were received claiming too much rain in Texas and anlso damage by insects, but otherwise the news was of a favorable tenor. In the early afternoon the market was supported by yesterday's late buyer, Howard Wilson, and it became steady around 9.06 for October and 9:17 for December. New York spots unchanged, also New Orleans and other southern spot markets generally unchanged.

There has been no appreciable change in crop conditions, and the present promise is undoubtedly for a yield substantially in excess of consumption requirements. The basic influences, therefore, are unaltered, and while the reaction witnessed yesterday and today is prefectly natural and justified, and likely to proceed somewhat further, it will prove instrumental in disturbing the inherent strength of the position by eliminating the supporting power of a scattered short account. It should not be forgotten that a daily increasing movement must henceforth be provided for, and while the trade is imbued with large crop convictions, it is unreasonable to suppose that actual cotton will be absorbed on an advancing scale, but quite the reverse. Liverpool is due to come unchanged tomorrow morning. I advise the sale of cotton on all advances from now on.

Liverpool Grain Market.

Liverpool, August 22.—Wheat, spot steady; No. 2 red western winter 5s 10¾d; futures steady; September 6s 2¼d; December 6s 4d.

Mexico to Have Shriners.

(From Modern Mexico.)

Masons in Mexico, and especially those of the fraternity who are also Shriners, were greatly disappointed, when, owing to the San Francisco disaster, the pilgrimage of the wearers of the fez and claws to Los Angeles was abandoned, as this meant the consequent abandonement of a side trip to this congenial climate.

The result of the necessary change in plans has been to arouse interest enough in Masonic circles in the city, and to some extent all over the republic, in the proposition to establish a Mystic Shrine temple here, and to make the occasion of its institution a cause for the attendance of Shriners from all parts of the United States.

At a meeting held in the club room of the Mexican Herald, a temporary organization was effected, and the following gentlemen were appointed an executive committee to arrange the details of this plan: F. E. Young, chairman; George B. McClellan, secretary; J. C. Shelton, treasurer; J. G. Houghton, T. J. Smeddick, R. E. Chism, Karl Cook, H. C. Caldwell, W. C. Richey, Oscar Ulfelder and Homer Woodruff. This committee has so far progressed in its work that the institution of a temple is now assured, and the organization has extended an invitation to all eligible Masons to apply for the degree, the fee for which has been fixed at $70.

Institution will take place in August, and the work will be performed with the assistance of Ben Hur temple, of Austin, Texas. It is confidently hoped to make President Diaz a Shriner on this occasion, which will undoubtedly attract a large number of the fraternity from the United tSates.

SCHOOLS AND COLLEGES.

COX COLLEGE AND CONSERVATORY

This Noted Institution Will Soon Begin Its Sixty-Fourth Session. Indications Are That This Will Be One of The Best Years in The History of The College.

No institution in the south is more widely or favorably known than Cox College and Conservatory, at College Park, Georgia. For two-thirds of a century this college has stood for the highest and best in the education of women, and has enjoyed a large and select patronage.

Many material improvements have been made during this summer, and everything is now being put in readiness for the opening day—September 11. Few colleges in the south are so well appointed or thoroughly equipped, and this, with the ideal location of this school, gives it material advantages that are very attractive.

But in the notable body of instructors, and thorough courses of study, still greater advantages are offered. The curriculum is high and well ordered, and every department is fully up to the best modern standards. None but the highest ideals of scholarship and character are set before the students of this college.

Besides the new president, who will direct the department of English, two other new teachers have been secured recently. They are Miss Wieand, of Philadelphia, a graduate of Blair Hall, N. J., and of Mount Holyoke, Mass., who will have the chair of Latin; and Miss Blalock, of Georgia, a graduate of Cox College, a student of Chicago University, and for two years teacher of mathematics in Roanoke College, Va. These go to make up a faculty of twenty-five teachers, thoroughly trained for their specialties in the best colleges, universities, and conservatories in America and Europe, and whose names are a sufficient guarantee of the character of work done in this institution.

SELLING WAS FREE IN FINAL HOUR

Wiped Out Gains in Most Prominent Stocks.

Western Commission Houses Sold Heavily Under Cover of Advance in U. S. Steel Stocks, Common Advancing to 46 5-8, the Highest Price in Four Years.

New York, August 2.—Considerably less excitement marked the opening of the stock market today. Initial quotations were generally lower, but the market speedily reversed itself under the lead of the Hill stocks, Great Northern preferred selling 9 points above yesterday's closing figures. Improvement was also shown by Northern Pacific and Amalgamated. The Harriman stocks and other recently active issues were comparatively neglected in the early trading, which was in fairly large volume, though much below that at the opening yesterday and the previous day. The general list recovered by the end of the first half hour but heavy realizing presumably for profit, brought further irregularities. London, which reported a reactionary tone for American securities, was said to have sold here at the opening. Commission houses reported a continuance of the recent activity but trading was largely professional. The market showed further improvement on circumstantial reports that gold imports are being arranged. Call money opened at 5 per cent, which is only 1 per cent below yesterday's high rate. The first hour's business aggregated 449,700 shares.

Business in the second was smaller than ony similar period since last Friday. The market was dull at frequent moments and prices generally showed a tendency to sag. Cal money was 6 per cent bid and there was a stiffening of rates for time loans 6¼ per cent being paid for several short time loans. The sales up to noon were 750,000 shares. The feature of the noon was an advance in call money to 7 per cent, the highest figure for some time. The market continued dull and reactionary, practically all the early gains being lost. Sales to 1 o'clock were 896,500 shares.

The feature of the day was a bear raid which set in 20 minutes before the close. The selling was reported to have come largely from the western commission houses. No known reason was advanced in explanation for the break, which carried all before it, wiping out practically all of the day's gains and leaving numerous stocks with material net losses. Money was freely offered at 4 per cent while the rain was on.

Money on call strong, 4@7 per cent; ruling rate 5; closing bid 4; offered at 5 per cent. Time loans strong; sixty days 6 per cent; ninety days 6 per cent; six months 6 per cent.

International Water Rights.

(From The Toronto World.)

Evidently delicate and difficult international questions arise in connection with the growing calls upon the natural sources of water supply for navigation, power, irrigation and sanitary purposes. As regards the Great Lakes, the marine interests of the United States and Canada are largely identified, and it is scarcely conceivable that any material interference with the levels will be sanctioned by either nation. The water-born commerce on this chain of inland seas is and must remain of paramount importance, and in this regard Lake Michigan cannot be dissociated from those subject to international control. It is highly desirable, however, that some definite agreement should be reached concerning the general principles which are to govern interference with the original natural conditions and the right of the respective nations to have what may be termed their prescriptive claims recognized and protected. The sooner an acceptable understanding is reached the better it will be for the nations concerned.

Simple Breakfast for Commuters.

(From Farming.)

Make cornmeal mush this way: Put two quarts of water to boil, add to it a teaspoonful of salt. Meanwhile mix yellow cornmeal to a good smooth paste in cold water; then put this into the boiling water and it won't get into lumps. Stir in now until the whole becomes thick enough to hold the spoon upright. While doing this let the fire be only sufficient to let it bubble gently. It ought to cook an hour. Turn it out into square bread pans three or four inches deep, and in the morning, if to be fried for breakfast, cut in slices an inch thick, dip into flour to bind, then fry in lard and butter mixed, turning until a golden color.
